

Mideast Accord Reached

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Syria agreed Wednesday to separate their hostile armies on the Golan Heights front. The accord was a dramatic diplomatic triumph for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and raised hopes for a more durable peace in the Middle East.

A lull in fighting was reported Wednesday night on the Golan front.

Simultaneous announcements of the truce were made in Washington and Jerusalem, but Syrian television merely reported President Nixon's announcement without comment.

A number of young Israelis danced with delight at the news, but some of their elders were less optimistic, preferring to wait and see. Premier Golda Meir said: "This is what we hoped for, for our people and for our neighbors, and we hope and pray that this is the beginning of a real and lasting peace."

Reaction in Syria was muted in the absence of a formal announcement.

Informed sources in Damascus said Syria was delaying announcement of its acceptance, possibly until the signing ceremony scheduled for Friday.

The council of Syria's ruling Baath party scheduled a meeting for Thursday morning to consider the disengagement agreement.

Western European capitals applauded the development, but most East European and Middle Eastern countries broadcast the news without comment.

In Washington, a government energy expert said the disengagement accord virtually eliminated the threat of any new curtailment of Arab oil supplies for the United States.

A senior American official said in Jerusalem that Kissinger believed the pact, fashioned in more than a month of hard bargaining, could bring a revolution in Arab-Israeli relations and give impetus to moderate Arab elements. He said the secretary also felt it could open the way for more Arab conciliation with the United States.

A Syrian communique said the fighting that has raged in the Golan Heights for 79 days died down Wednesday night following announcement of the agreement.

At United Nations headquarters in New York, Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said he had "already begun to take the necessary steps in preparation for the role of the United Nations."

The disengagement pact, negotiated in 32 days of intense diplomatic effort, will be signed in Geneva. It followed by five months a similar accord Kissinger worked out between Israel and Egypt on the Suez front.

The Syrian-Israeli pact was much more difficult to achieve, and a senior U.S. official said the negotiations that led up to it were the toughest the secretary ever faced. He said every issue was contested with unparalleled tenacity.

The agreement came after Kissinger gained a major Israeli concession on Palestinian guerrilla attacks, and two days after it appeared he had fallen short of completing the pact despite marathon talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The break-through came with Israel's agreement not to press for a written Syrian commitment to restrict its border against Palestinian infiltrators, whose incursions have left scores of Israelis dead.

Israeli sources said the government would accept a letter from the United States saying that any Israeli retaliation for terrorist attacks would be "understood" in Washington. This was interpreted to mean the United States would veto condemnations of Israel in the U.N. Security Council for such reprisals.

But Syria and Russia said in a joint communique Wednesday that a disengagement of Syrian and Israeli forces must be followed immediately by complete Israeli withdrawal from all occupied territories and the restoration of legitimate Palestinian rights.

And Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres told a news conference the new agreement did not end the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Neither Peres nor American officials would disclose details of the agreement, but Israeli sources close to the negotiations described some of the pact's main points this way:

— A U.N. buffer force one to four miles wide will stretch the whole length of the Golan Heights between the two armies. It will be manned by 1,250 soldiers, none of them from the big powers. The contingent will be known as the U.N. Disengagement Observer Force.

— Both Israel and Syria will have 12-mile-wide zones on either side of the buffer where armaments will be restricted. Each zone will be divided into subzones six miles wide. Forces in the forward zone will be limited to 6,000 soldiers, 75 tanks and 36 short-ranged 122mm artillery pieces. In the rear zone unlimited troops will be allowed, but only 450 tanks and no antiaircraft missiles.

— Each side will have unlimited control over its own air space.

Telling Of Rights Said Not Prompt

... In Goldsberry Case

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln police detectives testified Wednesday that the "Miranda" warnings on constitutional rights were not given Mark Goldsberry until immediately prior to his submitting to a polygraph test.

Goldsberry, 17, is charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of Wendy Hile, who disappeared on Nov. 15, 1973. Her decomposed body was found in a field north of Table Rock in late January.

Read From Card

In a hearing on a motion to suppress evidence filed by defense counsel Paul Galter, Police Capt. Paul Jacobson said he read from the card used by police to give warnings of constitutional rights to individuals prior to giving Goldsberry the polygraph examination.

He testified that to his knowledge the youth was not advised of these rights prior to that time.

Police Captain Roger LaPage, who testified he first talked to Goldsberry about 3:50 p.m. on Feb. 18, said he never advised Goldsberry of his rights during his conversations with him prior to the interview with Jacobson, about 3 hours later.

Denied Involvement

Jacobson testified that Goldsberry denied any involvement or knowledge of Wendy Hile's disappearance during questioning and during the polygraph examination, which began about 6:45 p.m.

However, he said after confronting him with the results of the lie-detector test, he admitted involvement and a statement was subsequently taken

On cross-examination by Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas, Jacobson read from the statement the first questions asked by Douglas, which included questions concerning his right to counsel and his right to have counsel appointed for him if he could not afford to hire a lawyer.

According to the statement, Goldsberry said he did not want a lawyer and when asked if he wanted his parents there, he said, "No, I don't want them here right now."

Douglas further asked, "You don't want anybody here before we start talking?" to which Goldsberry responded, "No."

Didn't Have To Talk

Douglas also asked, according to the statement, if Goldsberry understood that he didn't have to talk to Douglas, and Goldsberry responded that he understood that.

On further questioning by Galter, Jacobson said that Goldsberry had given him an oral statement regarding his involvement in the case prior to the defendant's talking to Douglas.

Lancaster District Judge William Blue received the statement into evidence for purposes of the motion to suppress with a protective order that it would be available only to counsel and the court.

He gave Douglas until June 12 to file an answer brief to briefs submitted by Galter Wednesday.

Galter has asked the court to suppress evidence including any oral or written statement Goldsberry made to authorities in connection with the death of Miss Hile.

House Kills OEO

Washington (UPI) — The House Tuesday voted to abolish the Office of Economic Opportunity, the old war on poverty headquarters, but to keep alive under other federal agencies its major programs of aid to the poor.

A new "community services act" was approved on a 331 to 53 vote call vote and sent to the Senate but it faces stiff administration opposition and a possible veto if finally sent to the White House.

The measure would authorize a total of $3.7 billion over three years, through June 30, 1977, with nearly $1 billion of that total earmarked for the big community action program which President Nixon wanted to kill.

The bill repealed the 1964 law that created OEO and it's several anti-poverty programs in the heyday of Great Society programs. Nixon sought to dis-

SE Senior Inserts Critical Comments

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

"I believe in the high school system, but it's alienating certain people," Martin J. Kushner told The Star Wednesday "It's so irritating to feel you're right and not to have anywhere to get into that big machine."

Kushner, 18, delivered a surprise deviation in his preapproved senior speech Tuesday night during Southeast High School commencement ceremonies:

"The main thing I find wrong with our schools is the oneness that exists," he addressed the graduation audience. "I find from personal experience and from that of others that each and every part of a school administration exists to serve itself."

'Each Level Follows'

"Each level in the school system will follow what the other levels do. They consider themselves one body, a separate entity, instead of different groups all trying to help the student."

Kushner, of 2400 Kessler Blvd., said that Southeast Principal Wesley Lauterbach apologized to the audience for Kushner's inserted comments in one of two senior speeches, selected by teachers and students after tryouts narrowed to four finalists.

The reaction from students and "a few adults afterward" was "favorable," said Kushner, winner of several awards and honors in extemporaneous speaking, speech and debate.

In the school-approved portion, Kushner emphasized the importance of studying the past to understand the future, to build on one's personal foundation and recognize the obligation to "see the far-reaching results" of even seemingly insignificant actions.

He also stressed that charitable behavior and community involvement should not be written off as too idealistic.

'Maybe A Change'

"If I provoke just a few thoughts," Kushner said in his inserted remarks, "maybe something will change for the better. Maybe I'll have done my share."

He said that outside the home, most students' experiences occur in school. He shrugged off school rules that might seem annoying at the time but said "there are a few things, and one in particular, that I did see harming people, things that cannot and should not be overlooked."

Besides winning his debate honors, Kushner said he "spent approximately 300 hours in debate study. My final grade, however, in debate class was a 7, the only failing grade I had ever gotten."

"I obviously had a problem with the first level of the administration, the teacher; thus, wanting to go through channels, I went to the principal."

He said Lauterbach "listened intently" and "sympathized" but "would not overturn the grade." The principal "would not overrule a teacher, or they might start to think they had no power over their own classes. This is an example of the system protecting itself."

"The same thing happened in my appeals to Supt. John Prashc and finally even the school board."

No Recourse

"You can't generalize about teachers," Kushner warned in an interview, but said "if they were wrong" there exists no way now for a student "to set it right."

"What I'm hoping is that I or someone listening to me... will put enough pressure on the school board... so that some system of review favorable to the student — and willing to go against the system — will be created."

"We need someone with the guts to flat out tell a teacher he or she is wrong in those few instances when they are."

Kushner said teachers are also affected. While the Board of Education fired Southeast social studies teacher and coach Charles Randall Fricke, Kushner said he knows "and can prove that another teacher in Southeast" has more bad reports than Fricke.

Fricke "just got outside the system" while the other teacher "remained in it," Kushner said in the interview.

He does not condemn Lauterbach or his counselor, he explained in the speech, noting both aided him, for example, in preparing to attend the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. He appealed, rather, to "help make a basically good system much better."

Sierra Club, NPPD Complete Arguments

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Sierra Club and Nebraska Public Power District Wednesday concluded their arguments on the proposed issuance of a license for the Gerald Gentleman Power Station near Sutherland, after ten days of meetings, eight volumes of testimony and a parade of expert witnesses from across the nation.

Hearing officer Duane Nelson said he will make a recommendation on the matter to the Department of Environmental Control's (DEC) Acting Director George Ludwig by June 10.

By Mid-July

Department sources indicated that Ludwig will make a decision on whether to issue NPPD a license to operate the plant by mid-July, since it is regarded as "highly unlikely" that a new director will be named before Aug. 1.

Wednesday's conclusion of the marathon hearings featured closing arguments and pains by both sides to make the hearing record letter-perfect in anticipation of a court fight over the DEC's ultimate decision.

The Platte Valley Sierra Club is attempting to get the DEC to order NPPD to install a "scrubber" on the 650-megawatt coal-burning power plant to remove sulfur dioxide and hydrogen fluoride from the plant's stack gases.

The site for the $217 million plant has been excavated; the only thing standing between the plans and actual construction is the DEC permit. NPPD hopes to have the plant operational by 1977. If the plant is delayed, NPPD has warned of power brown-outs.

'Reckless, Improvident'

NPPD attorney Robert Crosby called installation of a $60 million scrubbing unit prior to actual operation "a reckless and improvident use of public funds" based on "a guess" that the plant will cause air pollution problems.

The use of low-sulfur coal and a precipitator which will remove 99.8% of all fly ash is sufficient safeguards for the present, he said.

Crosby said the Sierra Club is "assuming the worst combination of the worst possible conditions" in its calculations.

If it does turn out that additional controls are needed, he said a scrubber could be installed after the plant is operational.

"If it turns out a scrubber is needed then it will be put on," he said. "Right now it is undesirable. If this is an area of doubt, the citizens of Nebraska deserve the chance to wait and see if it can operate with the standards."

H. Anthony Ruckel, the Sierra Club legal Defense Fund attorney from Denver, said if NPPD is to be given the benefit of the doubt, then why should the DEC have a preconstruction review.

'Regulatory Body'

"If all we're going to do is enforce a standard after it's been violated, why have the permit procedure?" he asked. "Either this agency is a regulatory body or it is a policeman."

NPPD's objections to scrubbers' costs and repair problems can only be secondary to cleaning the country's air, he said.

Federal circuit court decisions, Ruckel said, have "recognized the costs and other difficulties involved with scrubbers, but judges have said 'By golly, we have to get out and fight air pollution.'"

Ruckel suggested Nelson should consider the environmental damages predicted by Sierra Club witnesses if the plant is allowed to operate without additional air pollution controls. Testimony offered by Sierra Club witnesses indicated sulfur oxides and fluorides will have a damaging effect on crops, fruit trees, windbreaks and livestock within a 25-mile radius of the plant.

The only apparent missing link in evidence — coal analysis data from Atlantic-Richfield's Wyoming mines — was touched on also. NPPD maintains the low-sulfur coal promised in the contract is sufficient to show the plant will not violate sulfur dioxide standards.

Crosby acknowledged that Atlantic-Richfield refused to appear at the hearings and testify in support of NPPD for fear that "proprietary trade secrets" about its Wyoming coal would be released. "I don't blame them," Crosby said.

However, Nelson said, viewing Atlantic-Richfield's "negative record on cooperation," it is not unreasonable to assume that the firm will not meet the coal quality specifications spelled out in the contract with NPPD. He questioned whether the firm had anything to hide.

Crosby responded, "If an Atlantic-Richfield witness is required, we'll never build the plant."

Sparkman Likely To Be Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The primary election defeat of Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., removes a frequent Nixon administration critic from congressional foreign policy debates.

It makes Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., who disagrees with Fulbright on many issues, his likely successor as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In 16 years as chairman of the committee, Fulbright became the Senate's most influential advocate of limiting U.S. commitments abroad and curtailing foreign aid.

Sparkman has been a supporter of President Nixon's military budgets and foreign policy and a backer of foreign aid.

Fulbright was defeated in his bid for the Democratic nomination for his Senate seat by Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers, a fast-rising political newcomer.

Senate races were involved in all three states that held primary elections Tuesday — Arkansas, Oregon and Kentucky.

In Oregon, former Sen. Wayne Morse, 73, who, like Fulbright, was a leading Senate critic of U.S. Vietnam policy, won the Democratic nomination for the Senate. Sen. Robert Packwood, who defeated Morse in 1968, was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

In Kentucky, Sen. Marlow Cook won the Republican nomination to retain his seat and will be opposed in the fall by Gov. Wendell Ford, who won the Democratic nomination.

In Arkansas, the Republican nomination for the Senate went to John Harris Jones. The Democratic nomination generally means election in Arkansas.

Fulbright said Wednesday in an interview on the NBC-TV "Today" show that his defeat was caused in part to general dissatisfaction with conditions in Washington.

"This is somewhat a reflection of 'throw everybody out' that's in Washington, because they're dissatisfied with Washington," he said. "I think it's partly that. I wouldn't want to take anything away from the governor's success."

Sparkman, chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs since 1967, is second ranking Democrat in seniority on the Foreign Relations Committee.

Under a one major chairmanship rule, Sparkman would have to give up the Banking chairmanship to become chairman of Foreign Relations.

FULBRIGHT . . . bows head in defeat.

In a recent interview, Sparkman said he is not wedded to massive foreign aid, but "I believe strongly in technical assistance for developing countries."

The White House declined to comment on Fulbright's defeat. However, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that Fulbright has had a distinguished career in public service.

Arabian Oil Threat Ended By Pact-FEO

Washington (AP) — A government energy expert said Wednesday the just-announced agreement for Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement virtually eliminates the threat of further Arab oil curtailments against the United States.

The diplomatic breakthrough came just three days before the Arabs were scheduled to meet and review their oil-export policy.

"This agreement removes the major impediment to good relations to the United States and the Arabs," said John Wilhelm, director of Producer Country Affairs in the Federal Energy Office. Wilhelm recently visited Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya for the FEO and reported Arab willingness to increase oil shipments.

"I think with this impediment removed," he added, "we can be reasonably assured that Arab oil production will increase, especially in Saudi Arabia."

Barometer's Drop First Since Winter

Washington (UPI) — The government's index of leading business indicators, a closely watched barometer of future economic trends, dropped sharply in April after three months of solid gain, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The index slumped 0.7% last month, the first decline since a 1.6% fall-off in December.

Each month the department samples activity in 12 diverse areas of the economy and melds them into a composite index. The movements up and down have generally preceded similar trends in the overall economy, but lately the effects of inflation have marred the index's ability to call economic turns in advance, in the opinion of many experts.

In any case, a one-month reversal is not considered hard evidence of a future change in the overall health of the economy.

Only eight indicators were available for April's preliminary report and three declined: the length of the average work week, stock prices and building permits. The other five rose: initial claims for unemployment insurance, new durable goods orders, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, price-labor cost ratio, and industrial materials prices.

Portugal Warned

©The New York Times

Lisbon — President Antonio de Spínola, in an emotional speech Wednesday, appealed to the nation to "choose between democratic freedom and anarchy."

Addressing an enthusiastic crowd in Oporto, the head of state warned: "It is not by way of anarchy, economic chaos, disorder and unemployment that we build the Portugal of the future."

Gen. de Spínola, with a clear allusion to the current wave of crippling strikes, said economic disruption was playing into the hands of "reactionaries and counter-revolutionaries."

Four Dalkon Shield IUD Users Die

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A. H. Robins Co. said Wednesday that 36 miscarriages, four of them fatal, have been reported in women who accidentally became pregnant while using the Dalkon Shield, an intrauterine contraceptive device marketed by the company.

The Richmond-based pharmaceutical firm said it wrote 120,000 doctors across the nation on May 16 advising them of the reports. It said that the Food and Drug Administration also had been informed.

Robins said no direct cause-and-effect relationship had been established between use of the contraceptive device and the miscarriages, or septic spontaneous abortions. It said it did not plan to discontinue sale of the device.

A "septic spontaneous abortion" is a miscarriage associated with infection of the uterus.

Robins has marketed the Dalkon Shield since 1970. It said about 2.2 million of the devices have been sold in the United States.

Available data indicates the over-all accidental pregnancy rate of Dalkon Shield users is "three to four per 100 women," a company statement said.

In its letter to obstetricians, gynecologists, internists, family doctors and osteopaths, Robins suggested that the Dalkon Shield be removed "as soon as pregnancy is confirmed."

If it cannot be readily removed, the letter said, "serious consideration should be given to offering the patient a therapeutic abortion."

Counsels Say Evidence Of Utmost Seriousness

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee completed the first phase of its impeachment inquiry Wednesday and chief counsel John Doar said, "I think the matters are of extreme seriousness."

The initial phase, carried on entirely in closed session, dealt with the evidence the committee staff has compiled of President Nixon's role in Watergate.

Albert Jenner, minority counsel for the impeachment inquiry, echoed Doar's words at a post-session briefing when he said, "I think what has been presented to the committee up to this moment is of extreme seriousness for the Constitution and the institutions of the country."

Both Doar and Jenner cautioned against making any judgments until, in Doar's words, "we have considered all the evidence."

Chairman Peter W. Rodino emphasized at a briefing after the closed session that the panel's investigation of the Watergate cover-up is not complete. He said additional evidence including testimony from witnesses will be received later.

Earlier, James D. St. Clair, the President's chief Watergate lawyer, suggested that the committee ought to hear the entire Watergate case before moving on to other areas such as the ITT antitrust settlement and political contributions from dairy cooperatives.

But Rodino rejected St. Clair's suggestion, saying, "We are proceeding as we had planned to proceed and as we will continue to proceed."

Doar said that one reason the committee would move on to other areas before returning to the Watergate cover-up was that its investigation had reached the time period just prior to the appointment of Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor in May, 1973.

One of the allegations the committee is considering as a possible impeachable offense is the firing of Cox on Oct. 20, 1973.

Doar said that since the special prosecutor was investigating a number of areas other than Watergate at the time he was fired it was decided to present evidence in these other areas before taking up the dismissal of Cox.

St. Clair, who has sat in on all the closed sessions, said he did not believe a substantial case had been presented so far.

The initial reaction from committee members appeared divided along party lines.

Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., a strong defender of the President said, "It most assuredly is not an overwhelming case."

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., a strong supporter of impeachment, said: "I think it is a substantial case... It would be difficult for anyone to conclude the President did not participate in an impeachable offense, obstruction of justice."

Waldie said the strongest evidence he heard was the tape of a conversation on March 21, 1973, during which the President and aides discussed the possibility of paying hush money to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

St. Clair, in also asking for witnesses, said: "It does seem to me in all fairness, some of the witnesses ought to be called... I think the American people deserve to hear live witnesses."

Among the witnesses St. Clair said ought to be called were John W. Dean III, former White House counsel and principal accuser of the President; Frederick C. LaRue, former Nixon campaign aide; and former White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Mourning Protests Ugly

ROME (AP) — Left-wing extremists stormed rightist targets across Italy with bombs, bricks and iron bolts Wednesday in retaliation for a terrorist bombing in Brescia.

Millions of Italians took part in strikes and peaceful rallies in a massive display of mourning for the Brescia victims, listed by police as six dead and 100 injured. As the day wore on the protests turned ugly.

Chief targets of the attacks, reported by the police in at least 20 cities, were the offices and workers of Italy's Neo-Fascist party, the Italian Social Movement.

But the Christian Democrats, Italy's dominant party which alone with the Social Movement fought against divorce in the recent national referendum, also came under assault.

Police kept up their hunt for those responsible for the Brescia bombing, which occurred Tuesday during an anti-Fascist rally in the northern industrial city.

Walter Moretti, a 29-year-old physician, was arrested by police when he returned home after treating the injured at Brescia's main hospital. Police charged him with possessing explosives and being an accomplice in an attempt to resurrect the Fascist party, outlawed under Italy's postwar constitution.

He was not linked with Tuesday's bombing but was the 23rd person arrested in the Brescia area since police uncovered a big dynamite smuggling ring there two months ago.

British Resume Provincial Rule

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British government resumed direct rule of Northern Ireland on Wednesday following a 15-day general strike that toppled the moderate provincial government.

The government's action came hours after the Ulster Workers' Council, a hardline Protestant group, ended the strike that brought the province to the brink of economic collapse. Thousands of strikers content with bringing down the government returned to work before the walkout was called off.

The British government took over responsibility for running the province by suspending for four months the Northern Ireland Assembly, the provincial parliament that retained the last vestige of home rule powers in the province.

The province's executive, a coalition of moderate Protestant and Roman Catholic politicians under Chief Executive Brian Faulkner, resigned Tuesday as the strike brought life in Northern Ireland to a standstill.

By suspending the assembly and taking over the administration of the province the British hoped to give Merlyn Rees, the Cabinet minister responsible for the province, time to try and work out another attempt at power sharing between the Protestant majority and the Roman Catholics. At the outset, his prospects appeared poor.

The Ulster Workers' Council, which organized the strike in opposition to the power-sharing agreement, threatened to resume the shutdown unless the British government acceded to its demands.

The most important of these was a call for new elections. Under current conditions, with the power-sharing coalition in ruins, the Protestants doubtless would score a massive victory and form the kind of Protestant government that directed the province's affairs for 50 years.

The exclusive Protestant rule was broken when the British forced through the power-sharing arrangement that began Jan. 1. The Catholics oppose any return to the old form of Protestant rule and will press Rees to reject concessions in this direction.

Retired Executive Became Unconsulted Consultant

By ROBERT PETERSON
Many students of geriatrics stumble onto what they believe is a fresh, new concept for utilizing retired executives. "Why shouldn't companies," they exclaim enthusiastically, "retain older men as consultants, thus giving the firm access to the man's knowledge and experience and giving the retiree a continuing sense of usefulness?"

But the concept is not new, and it doesn't seem to work. Many companies have tried and it nearly always falters because, (1) a man labeled as retired loses status among still-active and aspiring associates, and (2) younger executives prefer to make their own decisions.

A former vice president of a major business machines company tells me that when he hit the mandatory age for retirement two years ago the board of directors invited him to stay with the firm as a consultant.
"It sounded wonderful," said the man, "for they gave me an office on the top floor plus a retainer fee of $600 a month. Then they sent a memo to all executives stating that though I was now retired I was being retained as a consultant and that anyone in the firm was privileged to draw on my 42 years of rich, varied, and vital experience."
"But nobody called. Oh, there were some courtesy calls from friends and others who had worked closely with me, saying how wonderful it was that I would be available. But the weeks passed without a single executive coming to me with a legitimate problem and asking my advice."

He said he called it quits when he learned the company had engaged a consulting firm to survey a branch office problem with which he was very familiar. When he asked a director why they hadn't given him the job he was told they wanted an "objective analysis" from someone not so intimately acquainted with the firm.
Does he regret calling it quits?

"No," he concluded. "I've made the break and I'm glad. Now I'll start exploring new avenues to retirement satisfaction and I expect to have a lot more fun than serving as an unconsulted consultant."

A reader writes, "An important member of our family is our Labrador Retriever. However, we travel quite a bit and used to have the problem of what to do with Jocko when we went away. He definitely hated kennels and being away from home."
"A widow, 70, who lives nearby heard about our plight and offered to come and live in our house while we're away. She asked just $25 a week to live on the premises and to feed and exercise the dog. She has no other duties except to tidy up the room she occupies, do her own cooking and wash her dishes. I provide the food."

"This way she adds to her retirement income and gets a change of scene. Jocko is contented being in familiar settings and having someone around. Also, we don't like leaving our house unoccupied. I'm sure tens of thousands of dog owners would love to learn of elders in their communities who might house-sit with their dogs. Our Jocko recommends it highly." Thanks for writing.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — Days of summer love. The editors of the daily journal are wedding couples. "The couple was married."
You and I would say, "They were married." But when two becomes a singular couple, the man with the green eyeshade is all for grammar.
"The couple was married!" the editor roared at me. "Was! Was! Was!"
The rules of journalism were engraved on me like a Hong Kong tattoo. The heart with the dagger through it bleeds forever on my arm.
I wrote "The couple was married and went on its honeymoon on the SS Lovenest. It has adjoining cabins."

(I thought let's see you put that one together.)
The editor tore his hair. He screamed: "This is a family newspaper! Are you trying to load it with sex?"
We were pure as snow in those days. We walked around the mating game gingerly.
"Old age never killed anybody." So says a doctor whose specialty is propping up aging gaffers. He said what pops you off in your prime of 100 years is the side effects.
"When we have conquered the side effects, there is no reason why man's life span should not be 150 years."
Is this good? Not so says the medic.
"What will we do when work is not necessary for the larger part of our population?"
A hundred years is a good score for any man. And when I was splitting couples and infinitives for the dailies, I was sometimes sent out to see these people who had beat the three-score-and-ten tables.
One crusty fellow went into a suit and wouldn't talk.
He said "They told me they were sending a girl reporter."
I went back and wrote: "Alonzo Codfish, 100 years today, said: 'I attribute my long life to clean living. I never smoked or drank.'"
Editors liked that kind of answer. They smoked and drank and raised all kinds of hell. But they liked their subjects to eat Wheaties.
"Red-haired!" the editor screamed at me. "A redhead is somebody who painted her head red."
We had all kinds of rules. Hang a participle, you might as well hang yourself. Fires spread up the stairwell and "mushroomed" over the roof. In night fires, tenants "fled to the street, scantily clad."

I said: "They weren't scantily clad. They were all wearing overcoats. It was cold."
The editor said: "Did you look under the overcoats? Well, next time look. You gotta be aggressive."

Days of talking dogs and 100-year-olds who wouldn't talk. We were fond of the Dog of the Year.
The Dog of the Year gets a $1,000 bond and all the dog food he can eat for a year (He is chosen by a dog food maker.)
The winner is usually a dog who jumps in the water and rescues a tot. Or barks and wakes up the members of the burning household. So they can flee to the street, scantily clad.

My own dog — a boxer named Mike — fell in a swimming pool and blessed if I didn't have to jump in and rescue him.
I suggested to the editor that I put myself in for Dog of the Year.
But he only said, "Have you been drinking?"

Something New Preferred

One doesn't have to appreciate Sen. J. William Fulbright's foreign policy beliefs to realize that a big man and a good man was forcibly retired from public life Tuesday.

Fulbright, with an early term in the U.S. House of Representatives followed by 30 years in the U.S. Senate, 15 as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was magnanimous to the end. He was badly beaten and was somewhat stunned by the magnitude of his defeat, but there was no noticeable bitterness in his post-election interviews. He thanked the people of Arkansas for giving him the opportunity to serve in the Congress for 32 years. He asked his supporters to continue to work for peace and said he would continue his efforts, even as a private citizen. Fulbright commended Gov. Dale Bumpers, his victorious opponent, for a clean campaign, although he commented that it was a dull campaign, because the two debated but once and really didn't differ that much on the issues. There was a feeling after this election that there should be a place for both men in national politics.

Gov. Bumpers' victory in the Democratic primary reportedly is tantamount to election to the Senate from Arkansas this year, as usual. Four years ago Bumpers was the city attorney of Charleston, Ark. (pop. 1,500), because he was the only lawyer in town. Today, after two terms as governor and having national ticket aspirations, he seeks to replace not just another parochial southern senator but a respected figure of national and international renown.

The voters in Arkansas agreed with Bumpers' contention that new leadership should be elected to deal with problems in Washington. And Fulbright agreed after his defeat that the time-for-a-change attitude forced him out.

But there never was a suggestion by Bumpers that Fulbright had done anything wrong or had been a practitioner of Watergate politics or had been anything less than above-board and straight-forward as a member of Congress. Fulbright was stained, however, by just being a part of Washington at a time when politics and those who practice it in the nation's capitol are held in low esteem. Bumpers may or may not be anything different than Fulbright, but at least he is something new on the national scene and that apparently is what the people of Arkansas wanted. And that is what has other incumbent senators and representatives of either party quaking in their boots this election year.

Graham Urges Repentance

New York Times columnist James Reston lamented in a recent column that a great many private citizens with influence in the country have failed to speak out publicly "on the moral squalor of the Nixon administration." One of those who has failed to comment, said Reston, was Nixon's favorite preacher, the Rev. Billy Graham.

Reston's column was barely in print when Graham issued a statement in which he confessed that reading the Watergate transcripts had been "a profoundly disturbing and disappointing experience. One cannot but deplore the moral tone implied in these papers."

But he went further. He admonished Americans to regain their "moral compass," while warning against self-righteousness. "It would be nothing less than hypocrisy," he said, "to call for a moral housecleaning at the White House unless we are willing to do the same at your house and my house." Graham said "America needs to repent and to turn to God for forgiveness, for correction, for direction and for healing."

While asking the rest of us to repent, could Rev. Graham at least ask the President to turn over the evidence?

Memorial Day, Again

Today is Memorial Day, for those who didn't observe it last Monday. This is the result of fuzzy thinking in the Legislature when Nebraska exempted itself from the federally designated Memorial Day of the fourth Monday in May and elected to stay with the traditional day of May 30.

While tradition has its place, Nebraska simply lost step with the rest of the nation and even with most of its own people. In general, private enterprise observed last Monday as Memorial Day, as did all federal offices and the Lincoln Transportation System.

But state and local governments will be taking today off as Memorial Day. What this boils down to is wholesale confusion and you cannot help but wonder what state senators were thinking about when they did it. Some families have even found working members with different days off for the same holiday.

As for tradition, the homage paid on Memorial Day can be paid just as easily on the 27th as on the 30th. Also, the vast majority of people couldn't care less which date was used. What they do like is the three-day weekend which the Monday designation facilitates for a number of holidays throughout the year.

Hopefully, the Legislature in 1975 will undo what was done in 1974 and return Nebraska to the national fold. In the meantime, happy Memorial Day if this is the day you happen to be celebrating it.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

With all the spring showers we have been having in our area, I have had the yearning to run barefoot through the puddles of water that stand in the low places around the farmyard.

There was always something special about going after the mail when my sister and I were small, especially after a rain. We lived at the top of a hill and had to go over a quarter of a mile before reaching the mailbox.

We would run down the hill barefoot, our feet making big, flapping sounds as they pounded over the hard-packed road, much like flat-footed ducks skimming over the ground. But our biggest joy would come when we would see a puddle of water in a small hollow in the road. We would alter our course so we could run through the water making a big splash. It was always especially nice to linger around the puddles, letting the mud ooze up between our toes or making marks around the edges.

It must be some primeval longing handed down through the ages, for when I taught school, I noticed all children made a special effort to walk through a puddle of water.

Watching the children go down a country road after a shower of rain, ambling their way home, I found it a bit amusing to see how they spotted every little roadside puddle to splash through, making a splashing noise and laughing.

Later when teaching in a town school, I would watch the small ones leave the school. After a rain the walks would be washed clean and clear... an ideal place to walk for keeping shoes or galoshes spotless. But what did the youngsters choose to do? Find the low dips in the paved street edges and go out of their way so they could slosh through the water. Some streets had grassy banks that held deeper water. Here the children collected like frogs on a bank to dip their toes into the water. Little by little they ventured out into the deeper water.

I always secretly wished that I might also be out there with them, splashing and sloshing in the puddles after a rain... muddy but deliciously happy.

The world must be full of inhibited people who have a desire hidden in their being to find simple pleasure in doing simple things like splashing through rain puddles.

Somehow society frowns upon the "different" individual who finds pleasure in ways that are foreign to the majority of people.

I have wondered if this is the reason so many people have taken to campers and hidden away in some secluded spot in the mountains or beside a quiet lake. It is in such places that they can let down all the guises and deceiving appearances that they must present when they meet the public and society day after day. Maybe they too have a longing to amble along a wooded trail, look for a ledge to fish from or listen to the wind making leaf noises as it passes. Best of all, it may be moments of doing nothing at all but leaning back against a tree at sunset while the campfire burns low.

To know one's self and ponder his time and place in the world, one must be with himself. It is a surcease from toil that we call recreation that gives man his pool of new values and inspiration... the holding of a star through an overhead pine bough in the night sky or the glimpse of blue sky away from a polluted cloud cover that hangs heavy over a city. It is the purple haze that sweeps up from a mountain valley or a homing bird that flies into its resting place at dusk.

It is a good place to cast the cares away... among the beach grasses by the sea in a hidden cove or in a quiet valley where the poppies nod. Somehow many ill thoughts die in a great desert mesa wrapped in a sunset flame for man can unveil his false facade and become the logical thinking man again.

I am certain Einstein did not arrive at his theory of relativity on a bustling street corner waiting for the light to change from red to green. He thought of it in the silence of his own private world, perhaps in the loneliness of four silent walls, but he knew himself and his time and place in life.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

WARREN... opposition called 'kooks'...

WASHINGTON — Of the 11 American presidents who left office during this century, 10 left either feet first or with their political reputations ruined.

Let us count the ways. McKinley was assassinated. Theodore Roosevelt turned his office over to William Howard Taft, then ran against him, and both were trounced. Wilson collapsed, and Harding died in office. Coolidge chose not to run again. Hoover was beaten, Franklin Roosevelt died. Truman was too unpopular to run again. Kennedy was assassinated, and Johnson, like Truman, knew he had had enough.

Only Eisenhower escaped the White House alive and with his reputation intact, after serving as long as the Constitution allowed.

As this depressing review shows, most American presidents close out their political careers in three ways: by dying or being murdered, by being defeated, or by abdicating — refusing to run again, usually because they knew they would lose.

To these three means of ending political service, we are now in danger of adding a fourth and fifth: impeachment and its inevitable companion, forced resignation.

Impeachment, Dangerous Precedent

In the absence of a grab for tyranny, we do not need these extra ways of wearing or striking down our elected leaders. The eight-year tenure of a president — one fixed term, with the likelihood of one more — already has too many ways of being truncated without the addition of "quit or be fired."

For argument's sake, set aside feelings about Mr. Nixon's tax conduct or lack of moral outrage at Watergate. Consider the consequences to our form of government of impeachment for anything other than an indisputably "high" crime like treason.

If there had been the precedent of successful impeachment, surely there would have been a serious move to impeach Herbert Hoover during the depression. If impeachment had been a usable weapon in a political opposition's arsenal, the "mess in Washington" of the Truman years combined with the firing of General MacArthur would have led to some congressional action on the demand, voiced then by the Chicago Tribune but not taken seriously, to impeach the President.

If there had been a removal-from-office precedent, the segregationists who displayed bumper stickers reading, "impeach Earl Warren" in the fifties would not have been dismissed as kooks demanding the impossible, but as a minority whose representatives were capable of making a serious move to bring down a chief justice.

And if impeachment were a lively possibility with a recent precedent, certainly there would have been a move in the mid-sixties to impeach Lyndon Johnson. It would not have succeeded, but the headline-making bills would have been dropped in the hopper, the dissenters would have had the rallying point of a specific action, and the President would have been even more hamstrung than he was.

Once a political weapon moves from a remote paper proposition to a device that has once worked, its use will be invoked again and again. Perhaps not successfully; but the potential of impeachment would add to the pressure to resign on legislative "votes of confidence," and a president whose popularity is a diminishing asset — like most of this century's dozen — will be forced to campaign continually rather than govern.

Each congressman voting on impeachment now should put himself in the shoes of one of the next dozen presidents who would serve under the direct threat of recall.

You are President Mondale, or President Gilligan, in 1982. Your social program is exciting, your economy is turning, your moral leadership is unsullied, but there is this limited war that has been forced on you. Immediately, to obtain all the classified material you used as the basis for your commitment of U.S. forces, a member of your own party moves to impeach. Just before mid-term elections, the opposition party members join in, not without a vengeful remembrance of 1974, and there we go again.

Or you are President Baker, or President Reagan, presiding in a world at peace and a resurgence of self-reliance, when a deep recession curls enough hairs to get a 10%-unemployed populace asking "what didn't he know and why didn't he know it?" The press thunders, organized labor marches, the poor hunger, and support of the President is considered political suicide; it might occur to members of the House to let the onus of defending the President rest over in the Senate, whose members are less frequently vulnerable to the voters.

I do not suggest that a successful impeachment now would lead to a rash of successful impeachments in the future; I do suggest that there will be no putting the impeachment genie back in the bottle once it has done its thing. By turning the unthinkable into the quite possible, we introduce a new and weakening element into our political affairs. Is it worth it?

Most people now talking for publication say yes, it would be worth it. But others, including a number of congressmen, are not talking for publication. They are weighing dangers, and many — who are neither sophists nor blind loyalists — believe the presumed danger to the Republic of not impeaching Richard Nixon is outweighed by the real danger of laying the knife of impeachment on the stage of every future presidential drama.

Opposes Shopping Center

Lincoln, Neb. It doesn't make sense to locate a major shopping center in close proximity to the new Zeman Elementary School which is due to open in September, 1974. Many children will be forced to cross 56th Street or Highway 2 to attend school on 54th and Claire.

The State Highway Department has told the City Council that the proposed regional shopping center will generate an average of more than 30,000 automobile trips each day. This will increase the hazards that will be encountered by children, teachers, school buses and parents going to and from this school.

I hope the City Council will vote to deny Mr. Hub Hall's zoning change request for 56th Street, Old Cheney Road and Highway 2.

SUZANNE WRIGHT

Mushrooming Give-Aways

Lincoln, Neb. I heartily agree with Don North in his letter to The Star May 24. It is high time all those tax-supported give-aways programs were given a mighty close look and perhaps overhauling.

One program which should have close inspection is the "day care give-away." I understand the requirements for getting on this program are quite liberal. In fact, one family with an annual income of $13,000 is taking advantage of it.

Another program which needs a close look is the low-cost federal housing for the elderly. It would be interesting to check into the finances of some of those people who hide their money by putting it in their children's names and go into those nice modern apartments for $45 a month rent, with the rest of the tab paid by the taxpayers.

It is ironic that young people who are trying to raise their families and maybe buy a home are working to subsidize these cheaters.

The give-aways are mushrooming and getting out of hand. Please, someone, do something. What has happened to pride and integrity?

LOW-INCOME TAXPAYER

Dog-Lovers, People-Haters

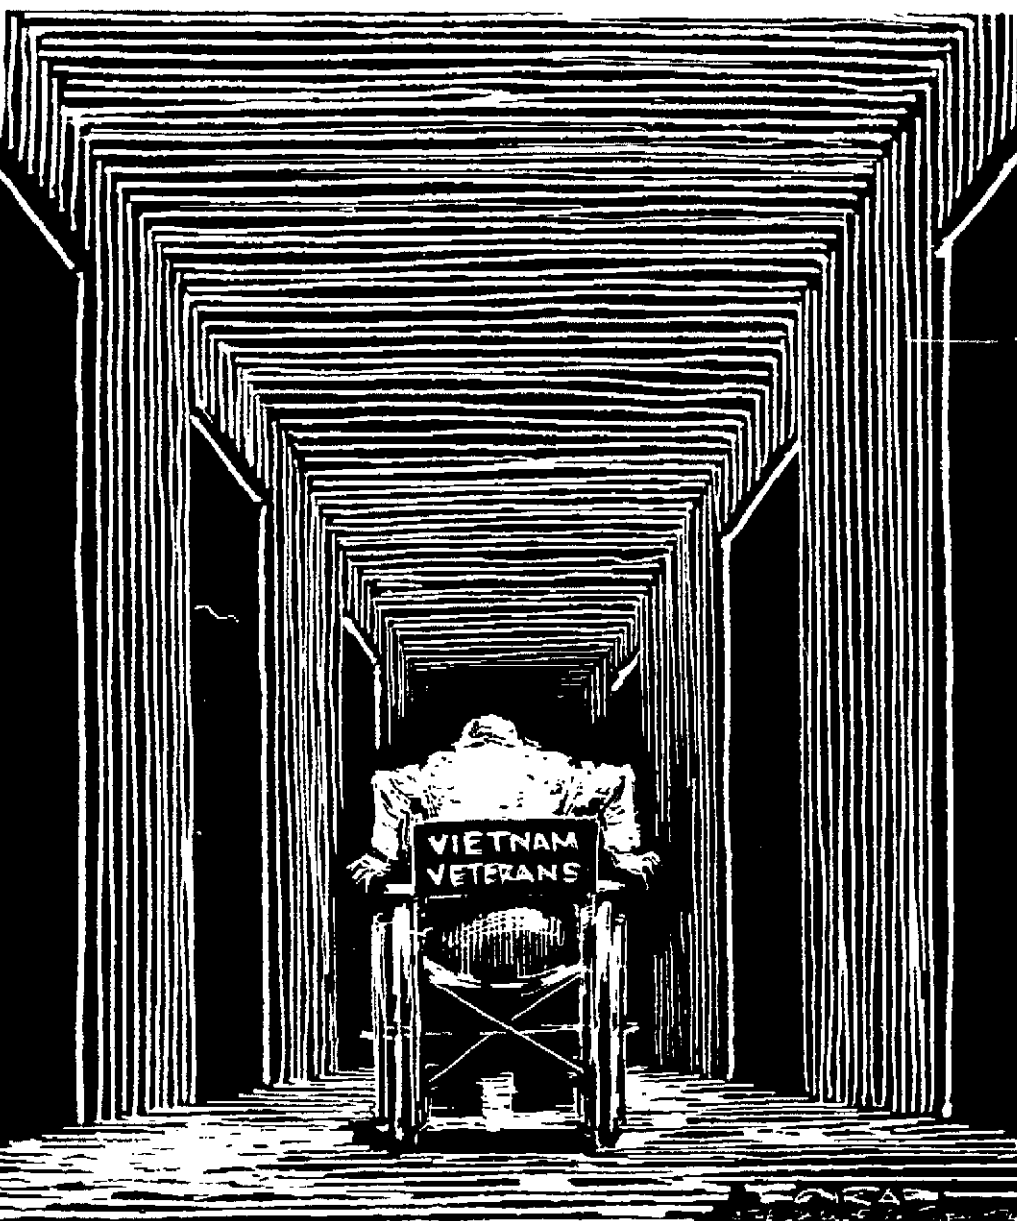

Lincoln, Neb. The dog-lovers are still maintaining their abusive activities by having children chewed to pieces by dogs, postmen's lives endangered, elders harassed needlessly and public property defaced by dog waste.

Dog-lovers think their animals are human, but show no sense of shame in allowing them to publicly pollute the environment even though they might be walking their dogs on a busy downtown street.

Their callous attitude proves dog-lovers to be people-haters. Stiff penalties would put teeth into laws requiring adequate control of dogs.

A DAY LIKE ANY OTHER DAY

C. L. SULZBERGER

Succession A Chinese Puzzle

PARIS — The old Byzantine game in which observers measure the relative importance of Soviet leaders by respective positions of their photographs on public display or their listing in official state communiques is kindergarten stuff when compared with analysis of similar formal hints in China.

Somehow, when adding Maoist methodology to the inscrutable tradition of the oldest and largest nation, one comes up with an exercise infinitely more complex than judging Soviet iconography. It is like comparing three-dimensional Chinese checkers to the simple Western children's pastime.

Right now, with Edward Heath, the British Tory leader, visiting the People's Republic and being accorded exceptional treatment, including talks with Chairman Mao Tse-Tung and his principal lieutenants, there is unusual opportunity to check recent suppositions of China-watchers intent on speculating about the post-Mao leadership.

The principal cynosure of attention is Premier Chou En-Lai, 76 and almost as weather-beaten as Mao. Chou has cut his work-load by eliminating most purely protocol functions. Nevertheless, he is obviously not incapacitated and continues to confer with distinguished visitors like Heath, often at Mao's side, if not always seated at the chairman's right.

Chou's gradual diminishment in public stature stems partly from political causes. There is no way of knowing whether this is a temporary trend — as is often the case in China — or how far it will go. Either he is losing power — or he prefers to seem to be losing it while reassembling his forces in order to stage a later comeback.

A third possibility is that a compromise has been arranged between his "conservative" supporters and his "radical" enemies who have been gunning for him in the anti-Confucius campaign. In that event, the "radicals" (like Mao's wife, Chiang Ching) may have reduced the intensity of their attacks in exchange for "conservative" agreement to appear to play a less important role.

This political infighting, whatever its outcome, has somewhat altered the positions of several leaders. Teng Hsiao-Ping, a deputy premier who has suddenly returned to prominence, sat on Mao's right (in Chou's usual place) when the chairman received Heath.

But Teng, who was restored to the politburo after seven years of exile following the first cultural revolution, is not considered hostile to Chou. Like the premier, he is known as an able administrator. He is about 70 and unlikely to claim top precedence in the post-Mao era.

While Teng seems to have carefully cultivated Madame Chiang Ching, who used to dislike him — and this may make him a useful symbol of compromise — few important policy changes have accompanied his recent rise, presumably at Chou's expense. There is a new wave of xenophobia but it doesn't appear as ardent as some of its predecessors.

There seems to be no difference between Chinese factions concerning Soviet policy today. If anything, the "radicals" may prove more violently anti-Russian than the "conservatives" because the former, as good doctrinaire Marxists, oppose any kind of revisionism — the current Peking name for Brezhnev's doctrine.

What is probably the case in China now is that affairs are being administered increasingly by the politburo, as a committee, and less completely by Chou, although always in the name of Mao. This has been a normal development in most communist states during the past decade — even when they disagree on other things.

The principal "radical" leaders are thought to be three Shanghai bosses, Chang Chun-Chiao, chairman of that city's revolutionary committee; Yao Wen-Yuan, reportedly Mao's son-in-law; and Wang Hung-Wen, a party vice chairman and, at 40, youngest politburo member. Chang is in the interesting position of also being close to Chou.

Right now it would seem that all those mounting the power ladder are in accord on Peking's primordial problem, Moscow. Only a few days ago Teng proved himself a good regular by attacking the "vicious bullying" of Russia.

But no one can foresee how the next generation's leaders would react to a Soviet volte face. After all, who could have predicted that Khrushchev would visit Belgrade two years after Stalin's death to apologize for Soviet behavior toward Yugoslavia?

What would happen if, after Mao's demise and Brezhnev's retirement, some new Kremlin boss came to Peking bearing the message: "We were wrong; we made many mistakes; we apologize; let's be good Marxist-Leninists together?" The answer to that rhetorical question depends as much on who succeeds Mao as on who succeeds Brezhnev.

Presidential Scholars Named

Three Nebraska high school seniors were among the 121 1974 presidential scholars announced Wednesday by President Nixon.

They are Susan R. Schroeder of Lincoln, William J. Shaw of Omaha and Steven D. Messinger of McCook.

Miss Schröder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal L. Schroeder of Lincoln. She is the recipient of a 1974 Merit

Susan Schroeder

Pius X Senior

Scholarship and 1974 Regents Scholarship.

She graduated first in her class at Pius X High School with a major in biopsychology.

At Pius X, she was president of the National Honor Society and editor of the school newspaper, the Pius X-Change.

The scholars are chosen for their academic record, leadership activities and potential for the future.

All will go to Washington D.C. June 16 for a three-day visit of the capitol and a White House ceremony honoring them June 18.

Council Backs 'Fired' LaVista Administrator

LaVista (AP) — James Walker, LaVista city administrator, continued Wednesday to serve after eight city councilmen gave him a vote of confidence Tuesday night.

However, Mayor Harold Leathers said he had fired Walker and that as far as he is concerned, "he is fired."

Under LaVista government, described by its attorney as a "very strong city administrator type," it takes the action of both the mayor and the council to fire an administrator.

The firing came last week over what Leathers described as Walker's refusal to confer with him on city matters.

Asked if he can work with Walker under the unusual circumstances, the mayor replied, "Yes, I can work with him . . . I think I am right, and he thought he was right."

County Insurance Bids Urged

Lancaster County commissioners are expected to act next Tuesday on recommendations of two insurance experts that the county solicit bids for the county's insurance package in June and schedule a bid opening on Aug. 20.

After three months' studying the county's insurance coverage, Dr. Leonard Berekson and Dr. Roy V. Loudon Jr. of the University of Nebraska outlined recommendations to the board Wednesday.

They suggested that the county, to create competition, actively solicit bids from national and international brokers headquartered in Kansas City, Chicago and Minneapolis.

Berekson, stressing that he was not being critical of Alexander & Alexander, which now handles the bulk of the county's coverage, said he felt the county would get the "best deal" by soliciting bids from a broad area.

The consultants suggested that the county should work toward integrating its workmen's compensation coverage with that of the City of Lincoln and also urged consideration of a combined insurance coverage for the county and city in the future.

They also reported they had visually inspected every property belonging to the county and felt that those located outside the city limits were "poorly maintained."

Citing in particular the county surveyor's sheds located in the outlying areas, Berekson and Loudon said that housekeeping at many of the sites could be significant risk problems and urged that some action be taken to clean them up.

They said at many of the shops, which are not now covered by insurance, gas and oil were stored inside and that large tanks of diesel fuel were being stored right next to the building, with filling of tanks taking place inside the buildings.

The commissioners said they would apprise County Surveyor Walter Hoppe of the situation and see if some action could be taken immediately.

Bigger Seats For Bigger Seats

Omaha (AP) — The folks restoring the Orpheum Theater in downtown Omaha don't want to cause a rumpus, so they're making the new seats wider than the old ones.

Why, you ask? Because, they say, people's bottoms are just bigger than they used to be.

The architect supervising the $2 million renovation project says some of the original seats in the 46-year-old Orpheum were as narrow as 17 inches wide.

Those seats bottomed out in the 1940s, and were replaced by 20-inch wide seats, said John Savage, a vice president of the Leo A. Daly architectural firm. He said that a few of the new seats would still be only 20 inches wide, but that most will measure 21 and 22 inches.

The reason for the variance is to make all aisles even. Despite the bigger seats for the bigger bottoms, Savage said there will be 2,700 seats when the new Orpheum opens early next year, the same as when the theater closed more than two years ago.

Keyes Questions Pay Increases For UNL Staff

By United Press International
State Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield wonders how recent salary increases and housing allowances for certain employees of the University of Nebraska can be justified "in light of the fact that the voters of Nebraska turned down a $275 a month raise for the state legislators."

In a news release, Keyes said certain university employees were given salary raises of 10 to 12% in 1973. A 5% increase plus $300 for the next year and $4,800 housing allowance.

In addition, the employees can make still other money from outside employment, the lawmaker said.

He said he would appreciate knowing the reasoning behind the housing allowance. The amount, he said, "is more than many families earn, and they are paying taxes to support these people."

The housing allowance was authorized by the Board of Regents last week for chancellors of the university.

Voters on May 14 refused to approve a constitutional amendment which would have increased state senatorial pay to $675 per month.

Cass County Seeks Deputy

Plattsmouth (UPI) — Cass County Sheriff Fred Tesch said applications are being accepted for a deputy's post to cover the Alvo-Greenwood area.

Tesch said a grant of $7,479 to his office from the regional law enforcement and criminal justice planning commission will enable hiring of the deputy.

Tesch said the deputy will be placed in the Alvo-Greenwood area because it is in a far corner of the county and the number of calls from the area has been increasing.

Charles Thone: Mails Compete With Business

By the Associated Press
Rep. Charles Thone says the U.S. Postal Service is not sticking to its job of improving mail delivery and should be returned to the control of Congress.

Thone said the Postal Service is competing unfairly with private enterprise in some areas, including offers to print envelopes for individuals and businesses at rates which taxpaying printers could not match.

In a weekly newsletter, Thone said part of the problem was the fault of Congress, which ordered the Postal Service in 1970 to introduce and promote new services to balance its budget.

Thone said a projected series of postal rate hikes "will cause the death of many small town weeklies, as well as many magazines of both small and large circulation."

Thone also accused the service's top management of extravagance.

"The only solution is to put the Postal Service back under the control of Congress," he said.

IRS Self-Investigation Results In Adjustments

Washington (AP) — A Internal Revenue Service investigation of its own treatment of White House friends and enemies resulted in tax adjustments for "a number of taxpayers" and other unspecified corrective action, according to papers filed in federal court.

Burke W. Wilsey, assistant to the commissioner of internal revenue, said the court documents referred to "errors unrelated to political pressure."

But neither Wilsey nor other IRS officials would release the report or detail its findings. Wilsey said, "Because we had mistakes in our audit process is no indication there was any political interference in our audit process."

The documents filed by the government in a U.S. District Court civil suit here indicate the IRS did find some abuses.

William C. Rankin Jr., director of the internal audit division of the IRS, said in a sworn affidavit in the court case that Commissioner Donald C. Alexander ordered an investigation on July 2, 1973, of charges that the legally nonpartisan tax agency had been used by the White House to help political friends and harass enemies. Former White House counsel John W. Dean III had leveled the charges the previous week in testimony before the televised Senate Watergate committee hearings.

Rankin's affidavit said he was named to head the probe.

"As a result of this investigation," he said, "I have initiated reports to appropriate service officials on cases which were handled erroneously or not in accordance with established procedures. . . I have reported systems and procedural deficiencies to appropriate service officials so that they could take the necessary corrective action."

A related document submitted in the case by Donald J. Gavin, the Justice Department attorney representing the IRS in the suit, said the Rankin investigation "resulted in tax liability adjustments in the case of a number of taxpayers; in other cases, corrective action is still in progress; and the study has resulted in suggestions to appropriate Internal Revenue Service officials for improvement of administrative procedures."

Neither Rankin nor Gavin would elaborate on their court statements.

Commissioner Alexander has repeatedly referred in public statements to an investigation of the agency by the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation. He said the committee's staff report, made public last December, refuted allegations that the IRS had succumbed to White House pressure to seek revenge against political opponents of the Nixon administration and help friends who complained about their treatment by the tax agency.

G&W Reports 20% Sales Rise

New York (AP) — Gulf & Western Industries, Inc., one of the nation's largest conglomerates, reported record third quarter sales and earnings Wednesday.

Net earnings rose 12% to $26.9 million or $1.44 a share, compared to $24.1 million or $1.09 a share in the same quarter last year.

An Associated Press study of the congressional panel's probe disclosed that in several instances the investigators did not interview potentially important witnesses and ignored documents in their own files that appeared to show White House influence on IRS policy.

Alexander was attending a conference in Jamaica Wednesday and could not be reached for comment. The chief spokesman for the IRS, Wilson Fadely, said the commissioner had referred in the past to the in-house investigation and indicated that its findings were similar to those of the congressional committee.

Asked for details about the Rankin investigation, Fadely said those findings were among the items which the agency has refused to disclose in the court case and that it therefore would not make public.

The suit, filed by Robert M. Brandon of the Tax Reform Research Group under the Freedom of Information Act, seeks disclosure of IRS documents relating to the agency's treatment of White House enemies and friends.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said in an affidavit submitted in an unrelated criminal case Tuesday that his office has evidence substantiating allegations that the White House directed the IRS to audit, investigate or otherwise harass its enemies, including then-Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Jaworski's office also is known to be investigating allegations that confidential tax information was illegally disclosed to unauthorized persons at the behest of White House personnel.

Help! Help!

BALTIMORE (AP) — A job for an "expletive detector" was offered in a classified ad in Wednesday editions of the Baltimore Sunpapers.

"Sensitive position preparing official documents for publication," the ad said. "Extensive vocabulary required; retired drill instructor preferred. High pay and good benefits, including executive clemency." The ad listed the telephone number of the White House, where a telephone operator questioned about it said, "We're aware of it. We've had a number of calls."

Jaworski's ITT Team Loses Two Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two lawyers on the Watergate prosecution team investigating the ITT case resigned Wednesday. Their impending departure, following the resignation of their task force chief, will leave the team without a lawyer who has worked on the case full time.

A spokesman for Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski announced that Lawrence Austin Hammond, 28, will leave the task force sometime in August. He said Paul R. Hober, 31, quit effective sometime next week.

Earlier in the day, Jaworski named Richard J. Davis as the successor to Joseph J. Connolly, who resigned Friday as head of the team in protest of a decision to allow former Atty. Gen. Richard

G. Kleindienst to plead guilty to a misdemeanor in the case.

A source in the prosecutor's office said Connolly wanted Kleindienst charged with perjury.

Davis, 28, has been with the prosecutor's office since July 1973. He had been assigned to the team investigating dirty tricks, but lately had worked mostly with the ITT task force's three lawyers.

The ITT group has studied transcripts of the nomination hearings of Kleindienst for attorney general for possible perjury by individuals. Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California is the only one to date to be charged with perjury in the case. He has pleaded innocent.

Kleindienst pleaded guilty on May 16 to a misdemeanor charge of failing to give accurate testimony to the Senate Judiciary Committee during the nomination hearings. The sentence on the charge could range from 30 days to one year in jail, and carries a $100-$1,000 fine.

Maximum sentence on the three counts of perjury Reinecke is charged with is 15 years in prison and a fine of $6,000.

The testimony in question related to the effort to locate the 1972 Republican national convention in San Diego, a pledge by ITT to underwrite the affair and possible links with the settlement of antitrust suits involving the giant conglomerate.

Davis will head the Reinecke prosecution when the case comes to trial July 15.

FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Thursday

Cut-rate merchandise simply will not do for Aries, Libra and Leo persons. Genuine bargains are more appreciated by the Earth signs, Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn. Leo can be extravagant to the point of foolishness. Libra seeks more beauty and grace than solidity. Aries wants the original, often in spite of the cost. All of us can use a few lessons in economy. No one person or sign is all right or wrong. It is a matter of who you are and when — and where you are going and why. At times, the costs are prohibitive. At other times, the sky is the limit and no price can be set on a commodity — or a dream.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Go slow, despite assurances from one who is optimistic and naive. Hold cards close to chest. Let others outline their plans, disclose their moves. You do best now through careful observation — and listening. Steer clear of legal entanglement.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Hold fast to position. Don't wander into foreign field. Study Aries message. Basics are more important now than usual. Eschew the sensational. Keep resolutions concerning diet, health. Steady pace is essential.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may have some surprises in store where romance is concerned. What appeared a certainty could cost more than you can pay. Message will become increasingly clear. Self-esteem should not be tossed aside.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Home, security, property — these are areas now in spotlight. Heavier responsibility is featured. Domestic chaos or adjustment is indicated. Make peace at home. One who is stubborn, old-fashioned can be won over, not forced.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Hold off on journey. Reservations may not be in order. Relatives could be disturbed. Argumentative. See in light of actuality. Avoid tendency toward self-deception. Pisces, Virgo individuals could be in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Older person can aid with money questions, problems. Know it and don't permit pride to block progress. Experience now is a most valuable commodity. Be receptive to one who is willing to share lessons learned in past.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Finish what you start. Stand tall for principles. Get better distribution. Obtain feel of pulse of public. Cycle is such that you are capable of overcoming obstacles. Aries and another Libra are featured prominently. Promotion, added responsibilities and pressures are due.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): What was hidden comes to forefront — take initiative. Refuse to be painted into corner. Express desires. You can achieve despite one who attempts to implant fear. Prospects are brighter than might be apparent on surface. Act accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be specific about hopes and wishes. Someone is planning a surprise. Keep guard up — show that you are not without allies. Resources. You learn truth about special relationship. It may temporarily hurt, but knowing is to your ultimate advantage.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Not so favorable for contracts, partnerships — but you can make inquiries which bear fruit. Friend aids in accomplishing goal. Accept social invitation. Temporary convenience is no excuse for shutting off communications.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Choose with care — don't jump at first offer. Select quality, durability. Be frank. Get more than one appraisal. Another Aquarian, a Leo and Scorpio could be in picture. Re-establish contact with one at a distance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Personal crisis may become apparent. Pace yourself. Avoid extremes. Practice what you preach. Make necessary changes, adjustments. Mate or partner comes up with money solution. Put brakes on individual who is careless at your expense.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you live life to the hilt — and at times, you eat too much at one sitting. June will be your most significant month of this year. You attract persons born under Sagittarius and Gemini. You are versatile, often try doing so many things that forces are scattered. You have charm and talent — and when you properly utilize assets there is no stopping you.

Warning Labels Ordered

Washington (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration Wednesday ordered permanent warning labels on all new microwave ovens, but turned down a consumer group's request to impose tighter safety rules on the industry.

The labels, which would become mandatory this summer, would warn the user not to operate the oven if there is an object caught in the door, if the door does not close properly, or if the door, hinge latch or sealing surface is damaged.

The ovens, which have been selling at a rate of about 300,000 a year, can grill a steak in seconds or cook a roast in a fraction of the time conventional oven methods require.

Consumers Union, which petitioned the FDA for new safety rules last summer, contended the ovens leak radiation and pose hazards ranging from burns to interference with electronic pacemakers implanted in heart patients.

CU, which publishes the magazine Consumer Reports, had requested a much more extensive warning label advising users to keep ovens out of the reach of children, avoid peering into them while in use and telling pacemaker patients to leave the room.

It also wanted tougher testing standards because, it said, present industry tests do not duplicate even normal, let alone abnormal, use that the ovens might receive in the hands of consumers.

Last fall the FDA tested 200 microwave ovens in actual use in homes and quick-food vending establishments and found that 89 of them leaked higher-than-permitted amounts of radiation when subjected to the test CU suggested.

Drunk Specialist Drunk

Reno, Nev. (UPI) — A woman patrolman who is a specialist in drunken driving cases has been suspended for five days on grounds she showed up for work intoxicated. Police said Mrs. Dorothy Peterson, a 10-year veteran of the police department, was taken home after being asked to take a breath test.

New Treasurer Is Nominated

Washington (AP) — Francine Neff, a former New Mexico Republican national committeewoman and member of the GOP executive Committee, was nominated by President Nixon Wednesday to be treasurer of the United States. She would succeed Romana Banuelos, who resigned from the $36,000 post that has gone to a woman for many years.

Mrs. Neff, 48, from Albuquerque, has been active in Republican politics in her home state and has been on the GOP National Committee's Executive Committee since 1972.

Senate OKs Revival Of U.S. Aid

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday voted 55 to 27 to revive the $1.5 billion U.S. contribution to a fund for the world's poorest countries.

The House defeated a similar bill Jan. 23 by a vote of 248 to 155. The House vote was interpreted as a defeat for foreign aid projects in general resulting from dismay over Arab oil price increases and the potential financial dislocation resulting from them.

The bill approved by the Senate authorizes a U.S. contribution of $375 million a year for four years to the International Development Association (IDA).

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., opposed the bill on grounds similar to those which resulted in its defeat in the House.

Byrd said there could not have been a more inappropriate time than the present for the introduction of such legislation.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who also opposed the bill, said 50% of IDA's interest-free loans had gone to India which, he said, had at the same time spent huge sums to develop a nuclear capability.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said IDA assistance went to countries suffering "absolute poverty."

Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank, welcomed the Senate action as proof "the U.S. government was prepared to face up to the increasingly desperate situation threatening the poorest peoples of the world."

(Nebraska's two GOP senators, Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska, voted in on the losing side, the AP reported.)

Ghost Troops Fleeing U.S.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Thousands and perhaps millions of United States aid dollars are going into the pockets of South Vietnamese officers collecting pay for soldiers who either exist on paper only or never show up for duty, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

While no exact figures are available, estimates of the number of such soldiers range from a minimum of 50,000 to a maximum of 200,000 out of an authorized armed forces strength of 1.1 million.

Using the minimum figure and the average private's pay of about $300 a year, the amount of money being siphoned from expenditures for legitimate military salaries would amount to at least $15 million a year.

A high-ranking South Vietnamese officer in a command staff position acknowledged that some officers are under investigation, including at least one general who allegedly pocketed up to $20,000 from salaries over a five-month period last year.

He said disciplinary action had already been taken in some cases, but did not elaborate. He said he believes there will be some arrests in the near future.

The officer said he had been asked for a report on the so-called "phantom" and "flower" soldiers by Maj. Gen. John E. Murray, the head of the U.S. defense attaché office in Saigon, which supports and monitors the South Vietnamese armed forces.

The "phantom" soldiers are those who do not exist, except on payrolls. The soldiers who allow superior officers to collect their pay in return for allowing them to be absent from duty — often to work at higher-paying civilian jobs — are called "flower" soldiers.

The disclosure and stated objectives by the South Vietnamese of taking action to correct the corrupt practice comes at a time when U.S. aid is under close scrutiny by Congress. Some congressmen are seeking cuts. Congress already has refused a supplemental military aid request of $266 million which would have provided South Vietnam with additional funds through July 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

The high-ranking South Vietnamese staff officer, a general himself, said he believes the number of flower and phantom soldiers is "not serious." But he said the investigation has not been completed.

Asked what action is being taken to correct the situation, the general said that beginning Saturday, eight teams from the central headquarters consisting of personnel and finance specialists will begin reconciling the military's records with the help of computers.

Other sources tended to play down the episode and play up South Vietnam's efforts to correct it.

"The fact of ghost troops," said one American source, "is like the discovery of the wheel. It is a phenomenon, all over Asia. It is no particular secret. The government is taking a hard look at it. They have made some progress. The government is doing more about it than any other Asian government."

The total South Vietnamese defense budget is $489 million for the current calendar year, about 84 per cent of this going for salaries, allowances and other benefits. It does not include direct U.S. military aid of more than $1 billion for munitions and equipment.

The U.S. government foots the bill for 41 per cent of the armed forces payroll with funds generated in South Vietnam by the sale of agricultural products under Public Law 480, the "Food for Peace" law. This is charged to the U.S. Agricultural Department's budget.

A U.S. congressional decree banning the use of "Food for Peace" dollars for military purposes goes into effect Saturday. But sources say it will probably be rendered meaningless by mere reshuffling of the national budget. One source said the action by Congress "is nothing more than a gesture."

National Tests For Teachers At UNL July 20

The National Teacher Examinations will be administered July 20 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, which has been designated as a test center.

According to Frank M. Hallgren, director of the NU Career Planning and Placement Center, many college seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for certification, licensure or those seeking positions in school systems which encourage or require the NTE will be taking the tests.

The designation of NU as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performances on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests, Hallgren said.

Nebraska Lawmen Join Search For Hitchhiker

Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska authorities were cooperating Wednesday night in a search for a young man involved in the shooting of a Laramie County, Wyo., deputy sheriff four miles east of Cheyenne early Wednesday morning.

Wyoming authorities said deputy Frank Sandage, 41, had stopped his cruiser on Interstate 80 to check a hitchhiker when the man shot Sandage in the stomach.

Sandage pursued his assailant in his car for about a mile, but the man, still on foot, managed to elude the officer until Sandage's pain became so great he had to give up the chase, Wyoming authorities said.

The suspect was described as 18 to 25, 5 feet, 5 inches to 5 feet, 7 inches, 140 to 150 pounds, with black or brown shoulder-length hair and was wearing a dark shirt, dark jacket and blue jeans.

Lincoln authorities said the description of the suspect matched exactly a suspect being sought by Lincoln police in connection with the burglary of several guns from the Westgate Sporting Goods Store, 201 Capital Beach Blvd., on May 3. Sandage was reported in "good" condition Wednesday night in a Cheyenne hospital after undergoing surgery.

Cigarette Price Hike Seen

Cigarette smokers can expect to start paying more for their habit, according to the state Department of Revenue.

An announcement from the department was expected within the next several days.

The increase, that could raise the price of a carton of cigarettes by a minimum of 14 cents, would come under the Nebraska cigarette fair trade law.

That increase would amount to nearly 1 1/2 cents per pack.

1974 Summer Session Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln

Looking for college credit, personal enrichment, or both! Then take a look at Nebraska Wesleyan University's Summer Session. Workshops, tutorials or regular classroom sessions are all part of the summer program. Fourteen departments will offer class work in 31 courses, from the introductory freshman level to more specialized upper level courses. Tutorials offer individualized, independent instruction directed by a professor. Workshop sessions in Education are June 3-14 for "Education and Minority Cultures," June 17-21 for "Classroom Testing," and in Physical Education, June 20-30 for "Administration of Crippled Children's Camps." A special workshop on "Death and Dying" is scheduled June 3-14.

1974-75 high school seniors may be eligible for Nebraska Wesleyan's special college credit program and may qualify for a full tuition discount. Check with the Summer Session Dean to see if you qualify for this special program and get an early start on your college degree.

Hearing Set On 2 School Aid Changes

Omaha (AP) — State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley said Wednesday that the Department of Education will present its plan to implement two new school aid laws June 7.

Stanley told about 100 public school administrators that public hearings will be held June 6 at Lincoln East High School at 1 p.m. on the implementation of LB403 and at 3:30 p.m. on LB984.

LB403 provides supplementary state aid to school districts to educate handicapped children. LB984 places spending limits on school districts.

Stanley said his department has to work out the mechanics of the programs and wants "input" from the school districts.

2 Youths 'Fair' In Collision Of 2 Motorcycles

Two Lincoln youths were listed in "fair" condition Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Health Center after what police said may be the city's first two-motorcycle accident.

Police said Douglas L. Luedtke, 16, of 6823 Adams, sustained head injuries and Ricky Jones, 15, of 3245 N. 63rd, sustained bruises and multiple cuts.

Luedtke was driving west on Leighton and Jones was a passenger on a motorcycle being driven north on 68th by Randy S. Meeman, 16, of Rt. 3, Lincoln, police said. Meeman was treated for minor injuries and released from St. Elizabeth's.

'Veronica's Room' By Ira Levin

As soon as you've read the first-page scenario, you know that someone is going to get his/hers in Veronica's room.

Of course, you might have guessed — even before you opened the book — that there would be some strange goings-on, given the fact that "Veronica's Room" (Random House) is the latest creation to issue forth from the pen of Ira Levin ("Rosemary's Baby," "The Stepford Wives").

This time, the book is in the form of a play, and, consequently, its readability is somewhat impaired. (There are better ways to absorb a story than by reading around and through, stage instructions.)

Nevertheless, Levin has once again succeeded in writing a relatively absorbing chiller whose primary merits are: 1) its brevity (give yourself an hour or two to read it); and 2) its inexpensiveness.

The hapless female victim in Levin's latest endeavor is one Susan Kerner, a 1970's-model Boston University student.

Her tale of woe begins when she and her new boyfriend are accosted in a restaurant by an elderly Irish couple. John and Maureen Mackey. By virtue of some smooth talking, the strangers convince Susan that she should "come out to the house" to participate in a little scheme they have cooked up in the name of humanitarianism.

It seems that John and Maureen have been long-time servants at the mansion belonging to the wealthy Brabissant family. As they would have it, the only remaining Brabissant is a 50-year-old daughter, Cissie, who has lost her mind and who believes she is once again a teenager.

Her sole desire in life is to speak with her sister, Veronica, who, the Mackeys say, died of tuberculosis many years before.

When she died, her doting parents kept her room just as it had been — even down to the unfinished jigsaw puzzle on the table. And poor Cissie thinks Veronica is still in there.

How does Susan fit into all this? Well, it seems that she is the spittin' image of Veronica. And would she please dress up in some of Veronica's old clothes, and pretend she is Veronica for just a few minutes, so that Cissie could come in and talk to her?

In the interest of keeping the story going, Susan consents to the scheme, and from that point on, things become eerily disarranged.

Susan — becomes — Veronica — becomes — Maureen-becomes-Susan in a strange series of twists and counter-twists that leave the reader wondering with whom he's spending the evening.

On the whole, "Veronica's Room" ranks somewhere below "Rosemary's Baby" and "The Stepford Wives" in content and execution.

Basically, the story lacks discipline. Instead of building slowly, steadily, to a pinnacle or climax, the suspense is allowed to spread out, and the impact is greatly diluted.

And, by his technique of piling surprise upon surprise as the story reaches its conclusion, Levin has succeeded only in tiring his reader and wearing out his welcome.

State Officers Elected

Mrs. Harold O. Qualsett of Schuyler was elected president of the Nebraska State Chapter of PEO Sisterhood during the group's 85th annual convention held on the Peru State College campus.

Mrs. Qualsett, president of the First National Bank of Schuyler, is the immediate past vice president of the state organization.

The newly-elected president has chosen "Walking With The Light" as the theme of the 1975 convention of the oldest statewide PEO organization to be held next June at Doane College in Crete.

Other new state officers are Mrs. Roger Cunningham, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Koefoot of Grand Island, second vice president; Mrs. James T. Hansen of Hastings, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. W. Key, recording secretary; Mrs. Gilbert Wilson of Peru, treasurer; and Mrs. Ed M. Cobb of Ogallala, organizer.

Farm Incomes Grew

Comparing incomes of farm and all U.S. families, a USDA economist calculated that farm family incomes grew 6.5 per cent a year from 1962-1972. And the increase for all U.S. families was 3.0 per cent.

Leading Designers Give Wardrobe Advice

Fall fashion means fluid skirt, big coat, cover-up cape

What should a woman add to her wardrobe next fall if she wants to update it? The following is advice from leading designers on what a woman should look for if she can add several new items to her wardrobe. The examples they give are items from their own collections, naturally. But a woman can apply the advice to styles that fit into her own financial bracket.

Adri — "A fluid skirt in a longer length (depending on the woman's figure, that could mean covering the knee or to the bottom of the calf). It could be in soft flannel or jersey, and it could be circular or goared flare with smooth hipline. The second item could be a mohair sweater with blousey shape. Instead of a rigid turtleneck, it should have a drapery cowl-like collar. The new cover-up is the cape. For evening, she should get a two-piece dress with skirt to the ankles or pajamas in a floaty printed chiffon."

John Anthony — "She should definitely get a new coat — one with a fuller cut than she's been used to. Then she should get a dress with a big skirt, probably a jersey with small top and swingy skirt with hemline below the knee."

Bill Bliss — "A coat is a good investment for fall. It should be a big one, such as a double-faced wool in gray and camel with fuller sleeves and wide shape, sashed or not. Then I'd suggest a soft blouse. It's going to be the year of the blouse — those that are soft and drapery."

"If she needs a dress, it should be a two-piece style like a taupe jersey with soft tunic top that has the casualness of a sweater and skirt."

Oscar de la Renta — "A soft tweed skirt that is flared or goared for graceful movement is a good place to start. Then a woman can add a couple of tops to go with it, such as a pullover sweater or a soft printed wool challis blouse. Then I would suggest a jacket that is on the loose side with soft tailoring in a tweed or loden or suede."

Victor Joris — "For a new look, a woman has to have a fall coat. It has to be longer — below the knee or below the calf to wear over the skirts or pants. A longer skirt, a circle or bias flared, in a tweed or soft flannel would be a nice addition. A blousey tunic top in crepe with a Russian look is new. For evening, how about a velvet cape to cover all her evening outfits, or a velvet pantsuit?"

Kasper — "I think a woman should try one of the longer skirts, 12 to 15 inches from the floor, in a flannel, jersey or knit. Then she should have a dress with a lot of movement and a loose look. And she's got to have a cape — perhaps a reversible rust poplin and beige tweed or one in gray flannel."

Ronald Kilodzie — For evening, she should concentrate on something to make her look sexy — pajamas in a supple fabric like jersey or crepe de chine with loose top or sashed tunic."

Chester Weinberg — "A woman should get a marvelous new skirt, maybe a bias-flared flannel about two inches below the knee, and wear it with straight-leg boots. It has to be a skirt that allows for hip-swinging action. She can put it with a beautiful soft blouse in silk or something like qiana jersey, but it has to have the new softness like a bow or ascot.

"A swingy cape in flannel, poplin or suede is the great new coverup. It has to be roomy enough to carry a purse under it and discourage muggers. The dress that's versatile is the one to buy this year."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♥	Dble	Redble	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead - ten of hearts.

This deal occurred last year in a playoff match to determine the team to represent North America in the 1974 world championship. The match was won by the formidable team of Bob Wolff, Bob Hammon, Bob Goldman and Mark Blumenthal, all of Dallas, and Eric Murray and Sam Kehela, both of Toronto.

However, the winners were badly mauled on this deal when they wound up losing 1,090 points—though they actually could have gained 1,860 points on the hand!

It all came about as the result of an opening lead. The bidding at the first table went as shown when Goldman and Blumenthal were respectively East-West against Larry Cohen and Dr. Richard Katz.

West led a heart against three notrump doubled and never got a chance to recoup after that. Dr. Katz won the heart lead with the king, cashed the ace of diamonds, played four rounds of clubs ending in dummy, returned the jack of diamonds and let it ride after East followed low.

The finesse succeeding, Dr. Katz cashed three more diamonds and wound up making the contract with an overtrick for a plus of 950 points.

Had West been sufficiently inspired to lead a spade at trick one—either the ace, ten or deuce—his side would have scored the first eleven tricks—five spades and six hearts—and Dr. Katz would have gone down 2,000 points!

It is certainly rare for a player to lose 2,950 points as a result of one play, but it happened here.

At the second table, East-West bid and made three hearts for a score of 140 points, thus averting all the tension and excitement generated at the first table.

Wedding Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schurmann of Hildreth announce the engagement of their daughter, Cleo, to Michael Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitchell.

Miss Schurmann will graduate this spring from Central Nebraska Community College.

Her fiancé, who served in the United States Marine Corp, will also graduate this spring from Central Nebraska Community College.

The couple is planning an Aug. 31 wedding.

PAL Program Brings School And Home Together

By NANCY HICKS
Star Women's Editor

The sunlight cast shadows through the long windows as the little girl and woman sat on the hallway steps. An ERA (Equal Rights Amendment) bracelet jangling on her tiny wrist, the child spelled out the words on a small green chalk board.

This youngster was getting a little extra help, a little special attention from one mother who volunteers each week as a part of the PAL (Parent Assisted Learning) program at Hartley Elementary School.

At the close of the third year in this successful parent volunteer program, it is the mothers who feel they are getting the most from the program.

"I've profited more than either the teacher or the children," said one mother, who has volunteered for several years.

The program is an outgrowth of an earlier class to teach parents the Orton-Gillingham reading techniques (a phonics program) and a federal Title I Project Instruct program.

After the federal volunteer program ended, the parents organized themselves and kept coming back to the classrooms.

First the teachers were asked if they wanted or could even use volunteers. Then a few mothers rounded up some more volunteers, set up a volunteering schedule and began helping, according to Mrs. Zelma Wilkinson, co-chairman of the group.

This past year, the most successful of the three-year-old operation, more than 30 parents, including a few Dads, volunteered from one-half hour to eight or ten hours a week at the school. In an average week this spring 41 volunteer hours were clocked up.

The parents do a little of everything. They grade math papers, listen to children read, use flash cards for reading and math, help with handwriting or just give a little extra attention.

They have assisted with a dental program for the students, helped with music fun times and taught special interest classes on such topics as grooming, flower arranging, chess and sewing.

"The way I look at it, we are an extension of the teacher's time and her hands. We are an extra pair of hands to cut out flash cards or an extra pair of ears to listen to the children. We give her that extra hour a day," said Mrs. Margie Thomssen, a volunteer for three years.

Though other schools also have parent volunteer programs, Hartley School has carried through the longest and does the most work, said Principal Stanley Hart, "in all modesty."

In fact eight of the women have been with the group since it started.

The parents participate for many reasons, and a few, including Mrs. Wilkinson, do not even have children in the Hartley School.

New to Lincoln, Mrs. Shirley McKinty, decided that this would be a good way to get acquainted with people in Lincoln. She volunteered early this school year and has been busy ever since.

The parent organized and operated program has received some national attention. Mrs. Sue Kirby, chairman, recently explained the PAL program at the International Readers Convention in New Orleans. And in the fall an Ohio group plans to visit the school to study the organization.

In addition to their assisting duties in the school, some parents put in volunteer hours at home. The group also publishes the monthly newsletter, financed from a less than $100 annual budget which the parents raised by selling note cards.

"It doesn't cost a great deal to have a group like this," explained Mrs. Wilkinson. And whatever the costs in time and money the parents feel they are amply repaid.

"It's delightful to share in the classroom, to find out what the children are exposed to and what makes them happy or unhappy, what makes them learn. The school and home are tied more closely together through this program," the mothers agreed.

TOM DIAZ . . . receives reading assistance from Mrs. Shirley McKinty.

PAL PARTICIPANT . . . Mrs. Louise Moore gives Andy Groothuis, 6, that "little special attention."

Fairview To Open Saturday

Fairview, the home of William Jennings Bryan, will open Saturday for its summer schedule of regular tours.

Tours of the national landmark building will be conducted by Friends of Fairview from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays throughout the summer. Special group tours may be arranged by calling the Nebraska State Historical Society, 432-2793.

New officers of Friends of Fairview include Mrs. James Rawley, president; Mrs. Rodney Cathcart, vice president; Miss Mary Louise Babst, secretary; Mrs. Douglas W. Larsen, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Burton, tour chairman; Mrs. Lee Bingham, special events chairman; and Miss Marjorie J. Mengshol, publicity chairman.

Dr. Fred Luebke and Maurice Hevelone of Beatrice are directors at large. Eugene Edwards of Bryan Memorial Hospital and Marvin Kivett of the Nebraska State Historical Society are advisors to the board. William J. Bryan, Jr. of Laguna Beach, Calif., is honorary board chairman.

Readers Respond To Recent Display

By a more than three to one margin, readers of the Star rejected the use of female mannequins dressed in red jumpsuits which outlined the cuts of beef.

Of the 126 responses to the beef promotional display using the mannequins, only 37 people thought the use of the jumpsuits was helpful and not degrading to women.

After several Lincoln women objected to the use of the jumpsuit-clad mannequins in a downtown display window, the Lincoln Star carried a response coupon which could be mailed to Jesse Felker, program manager for the Nebraska Beef Industry Foundation.

Felker, compiled the results and some of the comments.

Statements from women who favored the use of the jumpsuits included, "a clever way to advertise, real cute, and an educational idea.

One Lincoln woman commented on those women who were angered by the use of women's bodies to promote beef. She wrote, "Me thinks they do protest too much."

Many of the 89 people who didn't like the use of the female mannequins suggested using both sexes "equal rights to men") or the cow rather than a human body.

Among the comments on the negative side were "Beef is steak, not Miss-Steak; why not show her tongue — good for soup; cows and women are not comparable; silly, tasteless and offensive."

Felker who removed the display this week after the month-long promotion, said he hoped to get a model of a cow with the retail cuts outlined for a future promotional display in Lincoln.

The jumpsuit idea, originated by a local Wyoming Cow-Belle organization, an auxiliary to the Cattlemen's Assn., has been used in Nebraska and Lincoln for several years without any negative response.

Takeover Trials Set For Mid-June Start

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Warren K. Urbom said he ordered the trials moved to Lincoln because he wants to be in his hometown during the lengthy proceedings.

Urbom acquitted three women Tuesday to finish the last trial he plans to conduct in Sioux Falls.

He will conduct trials in Lincoln for more than 100 persons charged in connection with 71-day occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., last year.

The trials of six American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders will remain in St. Paul, Minn.

A law clerk for Urbom said the Lincoln trials were put off until mid-June to allow the prosecution and defense to prepare for the next trial.

Authorities expect up to 300 Indians to come to Lincoln for the trials. Arrangements have been made to house them in an abandoned Air Force barracks.

The trials are to be held in the old Lincoln post office which houses federal offices. A new federal office building is under construction.

$1.49 Billion For Aid

Editor's note: Today's Write On was submitted by Mrs. Barbara J. Peters of Hastings. "Basically a housewife," Mrs. Peters also is the mother of two boys and one girl.

By BARBARA J. PETERS
Yes, son, I love your dog, but . . . does she have to be a house dog?
Mother, you know she gets lonesome out in that awful old pen.
(Mother's note — that awful old pen is a chain-link fenced, concrete floored run, equipped with a cozy, carpeted, yet, doghouse.)
. . . does she have to eat in the kitchen?
Of course, Mother. Her food gets cold in the winter and all covered with flies in the summer.
(Mother's note — all this and Julia Childs, too?)
. . . does she have to sleep on the bed?
Now, Mother, would you want to sleep on the floor?
(Mother's note — I don't think it would be so bad. The floor in her corner is covered w/ th a four inch foam rubber pad that is topped with a cotton filled comforter)
. . . does she have to shed hair all over the bed?

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old married woman with three children. At school I was called "Pinocchio" because my nose was so long I also was teased because I was flat-chested. This gave me a very bad inferiority complex.
Last summer I decided to see a plastic surgeon, so I looked in the yellow pages and picked out a name I liked and made an appointment. He charged me $25 just to tell me he wanted $1,500 to do my nose, and $3,000 for silicone implants, cash in advance! I don't have that much

'I Love Your Dog, But . . .'

What's a little dog hair between a mother and her favorite son's favorite pet?
Mother's note — a ruined $10.00 brown cord bedspread and a beahred gold wool blanket that will never be the same and white sheets that have permanent gray spots from muddy pup paws, that's what's between a mother and her oldest son's favorite pet.)
. . . does she have to plop down beside the table while we eat?
She feels left out if we all get together and she's not invited.
(Mother's note — that's all I need. A dog with a personality problem.)
. . . does she have to have so many of my home-baked oatmeal cookies?
Now, Mother, you should feel complimented that she likes them so much.
Mother's note — a dog that pays compliments I could do without.)
. . . does she have to bark every time someone comes to the door?
Oh, Mother That's a good thing. Some day a robber may come to the door and she'll scare him away.
(Mother's note — a smallish, brown and white, sad-eyed basset with a tail that wags a mile a minute is going to scare a would-be burglar? That'll be the day.)

. . . does she have to nuzzle around me so much when I sit down to watch tv?
Ah, Mom, she's just an over-sexed female.
(Mother's note — no comment.)
Yes, Son, I love your dog but I love you more. If that stubby-legged, long-eared canine brings joy to your heart then I'm happy. If it pleases you to have her flop her flabby jowls across your chest as you rest on the floor, then it's all right with me. If it thrills you when she nearly wags herself to death everytime you come home or when she presses her body as close to yours as she can as you both sleep, then she's welcome in my home.

Remember 'Nobody Has Everything'

Please, please help me.
A MISERABLE MESS
DEAR MISERABLE: You can't be as big a mess as you say because at least one man thought you were appealing enough to marry.

Start with your nose. Call your county medical society for the names of plastic surgeons who would let you pay on time. Also, try a university medical school.
Nobody has everything, dear. Write to Frederick's of Hollywood for their lingerie catalogue. Their padded bras are so realistic, they could fool a nursing baby. And, good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I do volunteer work at my child's school three mornings a week, and I enjoy it. I do not gossip, I mind my own business, and I am not better acquainted with my child's teachers than any other parent.
I felt quite satisfied with myself until my husband asked me to find some other kind of volunteer work. He says he "knows" our child resents Mother "nosing around" school.
Our child is an average student with no problems, and I was of the opinion that he enjoyed seeing me in school. All the mothers I know do some volunteer work involving their children. (Scouting, Sunday school, etc.) I am at a loss to figure this out. Can you?

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: No. Ask your husband how he "knows" what he claims to know, and if he doesn't come up with something convincing, just keep on doing what you're doing.

DEAR ABBY: A man in prison for murder wrote and asked you if murder was a forgivable sin. He said he could find no reference to it in the Bible. All he could find were references to "an eye for an eye."

Your reply, "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance," was beautiful. Perhaps it would be useful to further point out that three of the most admired per-

Tryouts Saturday

Open tryouts for the Lincoln Community Playhouse Puppeteer's summer show, "Percy, The Purple Pig," will be held Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Playhouse.

Written by Playhouse director John Wilson, "Percy, The Purple Pig," was adapted for puppets by Puppet Master Lee Ridge. The production will be performed with marionettes Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 12, 13 and 14.

According to Mrs. Ridge, a large cast is needed to manipulate the puppets and read lines. Although there is no age limit for participants in the production, cast members must be at least 5 feet tall.

There are parts for men, women, boys, girls and animal imitators. Beginners will be given special instructions prior to rehearsals which will begin in mid-June.

Open House Planned

The Home Gallery, 2528 C St., will hold an open house, featuring original works of art, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

For more information and tours by appointment, interested persons may contact Jackie Lipsky, 477-1904.

Jasnock Tops All-Time Track And Field Chart

Oshkosh's Mary Lou Jasnock, the first Sunday Journal and Star Girl High School Athlete of the Year, left an indelible imprint on the all-time girls track and field charts.

Miss Jasnock's gold medal :24.9 effort in the 220 this spring is the all-time best in that event. Her :05.8 in the 50 two years ago and :10.8 in the 100 last year also rank as all-time bests.

Five other individuals and two relay teams this spring join Miss Jasnock as all-time girls track and field leaders. They include Lincoln High gold medalist discus ace Judy Johnson and Class A record-setting long jumper Peggy Liddick of Lincoln Northeast.

Benkelman's Danis Richards (:57.3, 440), McCook's Donna Short (43.9, shot put) and Omaha Central's Juanita Orduna (:10.7, 80 hurdles) also emerged all-time leaders this spring.

Omaha Central's :49.5 in the 440 relay and Hastings St. Cecilia's 1:43.2 in the 880 relay also gain No. 1 all-time listings.

Bachman Gives NWU Letters

By United Press International

Nebraska Wesleyan University baseball Coach Ron Bachman said Wednesday 19 members of his Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference champion Plainsmen have received letters.

Earning their fourth letters were regulars Gene Boeka, Dean Doeber, Bill Ashburn, John Crose and Ross Stephenson. Three-time lettermen were Dave Loos and Mike Reid, while Bob Blake, Gene Lessman, Larry Abel and Jack Ball picked up their second letters.

Scott Votava, Jay Hancock, Paul Cramer, Tom Barker, Doug Roseland, Jim Thayer, Dan Klaus and Jeff McHargueen lettered for the first time.

Bugner Retains Boxing Title

Copenhagen (AP) — Britain's Joe Bugner scored a technical knockout over Piermarco Baruzzi of Italy Wednesday night to retain his European heavyweight boxing title.

Bugner cut the challenger's right eye in the eighth round and Baruzzi was increasingly bothered by the cut throughout the ninth.

A doctor examined Baruzzi's eye before the tenth round and referee Kurt Rado of Austria stopped the fight.

Bugner, at 220 pounds and at least three inches taller than his short, stocky opponent, peppered Baruzzi, 231, with lefts during the early rounds.

Baruzzi regained his composure from the third round on and by the seventh round, the Italian was moving in low, forcing Bugner backwards and then going into a clinch.

The fight, staged in a half-empty Broendbyhallen Indoor Sports Arena was Bugner sixth title defense.

Johnny's Hit By Hickman

John McEniry's three-run, first-inning homer overshadowed a strong pitchers' dual as Hickman edged Johnny's 3-2 to highlight Tuesday night semi-pro baseball action in the Lincoln Twilight League.

Larry Abel struck out 15 batters for the losing Johnny's.

team while Terrell Dreamer fanned 12 for Hickman before being relieved in the eighth inning.

In the other game at Sherman Field the Fish Store scored 11 runs in the final two stanzas to break open a close 5-4 game and win 16-6 over the Lincoln 80s. At Firth, Mark Michel's two-run homer in the tenth inning propelled American General Life to a 9-8 win over Firth.

Terrio Quits Sidney Post

Sidney (UPI) — The head coach of Sidney's football team resigned Tuesday to return to his home state of California.

Bob Terrio said his future plans were uncertain, and school officials said a search for a replacement would begin immediately.

The first term coach compiled a 3-5-1 season record last year.

Sports Notes

Pete Duranko signed a new one-year contract with the Denver Broncos.

St. Louis University has withdrawn from the Missouri Valley Conference. The University was the third oldest member of the conference with Drake and Tulsa the only two older.

Former Nebraska tackle Jerry Patton was traded by the Buffalo Bills to the Philadelphia Eagles for an undisclosed high draft choice. He started for the Bills, who acquired him from the Vikings' waiver list, in 1972 and 1973 and had been considered one of the mainstays of the young Bills' defense.

Villanova University announced the resignation of Philip E. "Chip" Bender, one of the nation's youngest athletic directors who held the post just 13 months.

The Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers traded right wing Bill Flett to the Toronto Maple Leafs for two minor leaguers, left wing Randy Osborn and defenseman Dave Fortier.

A purse of $145,000 has been posted for the sixth running of the Talladega 500 stock car race at Alabama International Motor Speedway.

The Chicago Fire of the World Football League signed Dick Evey and Richard Earl of Tennessee.

Four-time Golden Gloves national champion James "Bubba" Busceme announced plans to turn professional as a lightweight.

Mass Murder of Bass?

Are bass fishing clubs, which are rapidly overrunning the nation, nothing more than clubs devoted to the legalized wholesale slaughter of the largemouth bass?

That question is causing quite a stir across the U.S. More than one state fish and game commission is taking a serious look at the bass tournament scene. Studies are being conducted on the effects of the "money" fishing.

Bass fishing, bass clubs and bass tournaments are on the upswing in Nebraska as well. Dramatic increases have taken place in the past five years.

Omaha, for instance, now has at least three bass clubs and Lincoln has two (the Lincoln Bass Club and the Salt Valley Bassmasters). Even some of the smaller cities outstate are organizing bass clubs.

With bass clubs come tournaments. With tournaments come a determined effort to catch as many bass, as large as possible, as the law permits.

Benefits Present, Too

While bass clubs and tournament fishing are not entirely accepted by a number of people across the country, this organized effort has had its benefits.

Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS) organized professional money tournaments which have brought about dramatic changes in fishing methods, tackle and auxiliary equipment. Specialty boats and rods, locators and lures have progressed from the tourney trail.

But the movement of BASS's local clubs has not been without its share of problems. The swam of clubs on lakes in several states has created public concern.

Indiana, for instance, passed a state law which nearly did away with tournament fishing. Any club would have to post a $100,000 bond, fish with 50 acres of water per fishing boat, plus a couple other goodies in that state.

Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas are eyeing tournament fishing with suspicion. There have been instances where as many as seven clubs have invaded one lake on a particular weekend in Oklahoma to hold a bass club tournament.

Release Catch Program

The problem worrying many of the states is the extreme pressure placed on the bass population by clubs and the general public. The public alone would not be cause for much worry, according to the state reports.

The tournament fishermen are another thing. These are the guys who spend most of their free time on the water, learning the best ways to catch more bass. Without a release program, tournament pressure can severely dig into a lake's bass population.

BASS has set a standard which might be worthy of local clubs' attention. It is a live-release program. Fishermen are given extra tournament points for releasing their catch alive and healthy. Points are docked for dead fish.

This type of attitude and activity is winning points for the BASS professionals. These guys are actually working for themselves. Fortunately, they did it before it was too late — after the public sentiment had turned sour on them.

Local bass clubs could accomplish much the same thing in sparing the sparse quality fishing Eastern Nebraska is blessed with. For those boats not equipped with a live well, a large cooler with a battery operated aerator works well for keeping the catch alive.

The bass are needed as a predatory fish in controlling panfish populations in local waters. Maybe the bass clubs ought to help the bass out by holding an early season panfish tournament, in addition to the summer schedule. This might help the bass spawners a smidgeon, and would be a lot of fun.

At any rate, bass tournament anglers, keep in mind my modern day variation of an old standby. Save a bass in time and she'll give you nine. Think ahead.

Reds Squeak Past Mets

Cincinnati (UPI) — Tony Perez's two-out home run in the 10th inning, his ninth of the season, off reliever Harry Parker gave the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets Wednesday night for their sixth consecutive triumph.

The victory went to Clay Carroll, the last of three Red pitchers, who pitched a hitless 10th inning.

Parker, suffering his third loss in four decisions, took over after Mets' starter Jon Matlack was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the top of the 10th inning.

Don Gullett was working on a two-hit shutout when New York's Cleon Jones and John Milner hit consecutive home runs in the seventh inning to tie the score at 2-2.

Dave Concepcion staked the Reds to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when he reached base on a forceout, stole second, continued to third on an error by first baseman Milner and scored on a single by Merv Rettenmund.

A single by Gullett and a double by Pete Rose made it 2-0 in the third inning.

Giants Nip Cubs, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Gary Thomasson's two-run double and Dave Rader's two-run single, both with two out in the first inning, and Bobby Bonds' homer in the seventh led the San Francisco Giants to a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

Rookie John D'Acquisto was the winner, boosting his record to 3-5, but needed relief help from Randy Moffitt in the eighth.

Cubs' starter Rick Rueschel, 3-4, got into trouble in the first inning when the Giants loaded the bases on singles by Tito Fuentes and Garry Maddox and a walk to Steve Ontiveros.

Thomasson's double scored Fuentes and Maddox. After Mike Phillips walked, filling the bases again, Rader singled, driving in Ontiveros and Thomasson.

The Cubs scored two runs in the third on successive singles by Billy Williams, Jose Cardenal and Rick Monday and a fielder's choice.

Chicago added two more in the eighth on a bases-loaded single by pinch hitter Chris Ward. Following Ward's hit, Matt Alexander grounded to first base, but Vic Harris was thrown out at the plate in an attempt to score from third.

The Cubs also had two runners tossed out at home in the ninth. After filling the bases on three singles with none out, the next two batters smacked infield grounders, but Williams and Cardenal both were nailed at home. Then Harris fouled out, ending the game.

Hunter Signs Packer Pact

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Quarterback Scott Hunter, who says he has "this gut belief that I can move a football team," signed a multi-year contract with the NFL Green Bay Packers Wednesday.

The Packers also said they had signed defensive back Charlie Hall, reducing to eight the number of players now in the option year of their contracts.

Coach Dan Devine said Hunter, who led the Packers to the NFC's Central Division title in 1972, will be "given a good opportunity" to win the quarterback job from third year man Jerry Tagge.

Hunter started last season as the No. 1 quarterback, but gave way to Jim Del Greco and then Tagge as he was bothered with injuries and inability to move the team.

"I'm not a great passer and I'm not a great runner," Hunter said. "But I've got this gut belief that I can move a football team, that I can get the ball across the goal line."

Hall, who said a nagging neck injury has been well rehabilitated, said, "My attitude is great. I can't wait to get started." Hall and Hunter are in their fourth seasons.

Correll's Hit Propels Atlanta

Atlanta (UPI) — Pinchhitter Vic Correll drove home Ralph Garr in the bottom of the 11th Wednesday night to give the Atlanta Braves a 1-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Correll, an .095 hitter, was batting for Rowland Office who had replaced Hank Aaron in the lineup. Correll came up with Garr at second and Dusty Baker on first with one out and slashed a 3-2 pitch off Steve Carlton into deep left centerfield but was credited only with a single since the speedy Garr had already crossed home plate before he reached second.

Carlton, 6-4, was locked in a scoreless duel through 10 innings with Braves' righthander Carl Morton. Both allowed only four hits in that span.

Tom House, picking up his first decision of the year, took over for Morton in the 11th and retired the side in 1-2-3 order.

Garr, the National League batting leader with a .391 average, led off the bottom of the 11th with his third hit in five at-bats, a double down the leftfield line.

Robertson Aids Pittsburgh Win

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Robertson slugged two homers and drove in five runs Wednesday night to support the five-hit pitching of southpaw Jerry Reuss and pace the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 13-3 rout of the San Diego Padres.

It was Reuss' fourth victory against three losses while Larry Hardy, 3-2, was tagged with the defeat.

Robertson, who started the game with a .157 batting average, hit a two-run homer in the second following Willie Stargell's double and Richie Zisk's run-scoring single.

He blasted another two-run shot in the sixth after Al Oliver tripled and Stargell singled.

Rich Hebrner's triple, Oliver's sacrifice fly, Zisk's single, a walk and an error combined for two more Pirate runs in the third. Reuss drove in the sixth run in the fourth after Manny Sanguillen's single and a sacrifice.

Oliver's double triggered a four-run rally in the fifth, followed by Robertson's single, a walk, Frank Taveras' two-run single and Reuss' run-scoring groundout.

Homers by Clarence Gaston and Nate Colbert accounted for San Diego's runs.

Houston Tops Montreal, 5-3

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bob Watson drove in two runs with a two-out bases-loaded single in the ninth inning Wednesday night to lead the Houston Astros to a 5-3 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Rookie Greg Gross, who earlier drove in two runs, walked. Then Montreal loser Tom Walker gave up a single to Roger Metzger before he walked Cesar Cedeno to load the bases. A ball ninth crowd of 13,119 then watched Watson slash his single to center field, scoring Gross and Metzger with the winning runs.

The Expos scored twice in the fourth inning. Ken Singleton tripled home Willie Davis, who had singled, and came home on Bob Bailey's single.

The Astros tied the game 2-2 in the fifth inning when Doug Rader and Claude Osteen singled and Gross followed with a triple. Houston took a 3-2 margin in the seventh. Tommy Helms walked, stole second and scored on Osteen's double.

Montreal came back to tie the game in the bottom of the seventh. Hal Breeden doubled and Larry Lintz, running for Breeden, scored on a single by rookie Jim Cox.

Belgian Pat Sercu won the second part of the 11th leg of the Tour of Italy cycling race after Spain's Manuel Fuente had won the first part to increase his overall lead in the series.

Forward Bob Barlow, 38, signed a contract with the Phoenix entry in the WHA, club officials announced.

Ilie Nastase of Romania and Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were named the top seeds for the French Open Tennis Tournament, which will be held June 5-16.

McArthur Lane, a Green Bay Packer running back, won the second annual Professional Athletes Decathlon by edging Jim Barnett of the Golden State Warriors by two points.

Butkus Sues Chicago Bears

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dick Butkus, the perennial All-Pro middle linebacker of the National Football League until he was hobbled by a knee injury, Wednesday sued the Chicago Bears for $1.6 million charging breach of contract.

The long-expected suit charged the Bears failed to provide him with proper medical and hospital care after he was injured.

Instead, it said, "long and continued" cortisone injections did "irreparable damage" to Butkus' knee. Butkus was not warned of the long term effect of the injections, the suit said.

The action caught club president George S. Halas by surprise. After a hurried meeting of Bear brass, Halas issued a statement saying he was "puzzled by this latest action, particularly in light of my harmonious conversation with Dick Butkus last Thursday."

Halas said Butkus promised him in that meeting that he was willing to undergo surgery at the Bears' expense and to close the matter at that time.

"It is eminently clear that all Dick is interested in is sitting in Florida and collecting his pay checks for the next four years," Halas said. "As I have not seen a copy of the complaint, any response will be made by my attorney."

The suit accused the Bears of breaking the five-year contract it signed with Butkus last July 13. Although Butkus' annual salary under the contract is $115,000, the suit asked $600,000 in compensatory damages, plus $1 million in punitive damages.

Butkus has maintained he needs surgery and is unable to play football. He asked that the Bears release him while still paying the salary called for by the contract.

Bears owner George S. Halas has said Butkus can continue to draw his salary, so long as he continues to perform functions connected with football for the Bears. Halas mentioned that Butkus could serve as a good will ambassador.

The suit, filed by attorney James A. Dooley, said Butkus was seriously injured last November. Orthopedic surgeons and the club doctor, Theodore Fox, gave the opinion that "he is unable to perform the services required of him by the contract," the suit said.

The suit was not immediately assigned to a judge.

Surgery Over For Walton

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Walton of the Portland Trail Blazers underwent knee surgery Wednesday at Portland's St. Vincent Hospital.

Dr. Frank B. Smith, the team physician, removed a piece of cartilage through a small opening in the knee during the 30-minute operation. Walton, an All America center from UCLA, was Portland's first draft choice in the National Basketball Association draft. He was under a general anesthetic.

He is expected to remain at the hospital for a few days. Doctors said there will be no calls or visitors accepted for Walton at the hospital.

Dr. Smith said the operation was without complications.

Orioles Crush Royals

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Consecutive bloop singles by Al Bumbry, Rich Coggins and Tommy Davis started a four-run first inning and Bobby Grich highlighted a six-run seventh with a three-run double Wednesday night to pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 10-3 rout of the Kansas City Royals behind the 10-hit pitching of Mike Cuellar.

The victory ended a four-game losing streak for the Orioles, while the Royals' five-game winning streak was halted.

The soft-throwing Cuellar, 6-3, pitched his sixth straight complete game victory, making his 200th start for the Orioles. Cuellar posted his 100th complete game.

The hits by Bumbry, Coggins and Davis produced a run in the first and Boog Powell was walked to load the bases. After Grich struck out, Brooks Robinson laced a run-scoring single.

Davis scored when loser Steve Busby, 7-4, threw wildly on a pickoff attempt for an error and Powell scored on a sacrifice fly by Ellie Hendricks.

The Orioles put the game out of reach with six more runs in the seventh, an inning which was highlighted by Grich's three-run double.

Rangers Topple Cleveland, 3-0

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Jackie Brown, making only his second start of the season, limited the Cleveland Indians to only three hits Wednesday night in pitching the Texas Rangers to a 3-0 victory in a game highlighted by a benches-clearing brawl in the eighth inning.

Brown, who was pitching only because scheduled starter David Clyde was suffering from the flu, did not walk a batter and struck out eight in picking up his third victory against one defeat. The only hits off him were singles and no Indian reach second base.

Brown had been used as a long relief pitcher this year until last Saturday when he started and beat the Minnesota Twins.

Texas got its first run in the second when, with two out, Jim Fregosi, Leo Cardenas and Jim Sundberg his consecutive singles off loser Fritz Peterson.

Peterson, now 3-3, left the game in the third with a pulled muscle in his side and reliever Bob Johnson allowed only two hits through four innings before the Rangers scored twice more in the seventh.

Len Randle singled to open the seventh and Fregosi sent him to third with another single. When leftfielder Leron Lee booted Fregosi's hit, Randle scored with Fregosi taking second. Larry Brown ran for Fregosi, moved to third on a sacrifice bunt and scored on a suicide squeeze bunt by Sundberg.

It was Randle and relief pitcher Milt Wilcox who touched off the fireworks in the last of the eighth inning. Wilcox started it by throwing a pitch at the feet of Randle, who had singled twice earlier in the game.

Randle then hit a grounder to the mound that Wilcox fielded, but as Wilcox ran over to tag Randle, Randle charged Wilcox and knocked the pitcher to the ground. Both benches cleared and it took the umpires almost 10 minutes to restore order.

LIEBRAUMILCH-MADONNA 1972

The most popular of all German wines sold in America is LIEBRAUMILCH — The term LIEBRAUMILCH — or "milk of the blessed Mother" — is one which may be applied to any German wine made from grapes grown in the Rhine region and which does not come from a specific Estate. It is usually sold in brown bottles. However, just asking for a German wine by this name is a mistake — it is just like asking for a carton of Vitamin "D" milk anybody's. To get the best wine of this type it is important to know either the wine maker or the shipper — or better yet a dependable and knowledgeable Wine Merchant. The first LIEBRAUMILCH was introduced to the world by the Valckenburg family in 1786 — wine made from grapes grown in their vineyard — the renowned LIEBRAUMILCH — located in Worms, Germany. Today, this wine is still available to you under the name: LIEBRAUMILCH-MADONNA — sold exclusively in Nebraska by MITCH TAVLIN the leading Importer and Wine Merchant in Nebraska. We recommend this full-bodied and fruity wine as one of our best buys. Remember, when buying LIEBRAUMILCH ask for it by its full name — LIEBRAUMILCH-MADONNA. You pay nothing for national advertising — just for a fine wine. MITCH TAVLIN is all you need to know about wine. Do all of your wine and spirits shopping at MITCH TAVLIN — for price, selection and red-carpet service you can't do better anywhere else.

Bidding Heavy For Right To Drill Oil In Gulf Shelf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Oilmen scrambling for the cream of the Texas offshore drilling area put up $1.5 billion Wednesday for what one official described as the last of the high-potential drilling sites in the Gulf of Mexico.

"It was an opportunity that will never be repeated," H. R. Hirsch of Houston, Mobil Oil Corp.'s exploration manager for the southern region, said of the 123 tracts on the oil-rich seabottom.

Death Rate Down In Farm Accidents

There's a bright spot in the Nebraska farm safety picture this year, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension safety specialist said this week.

Rollin Schneider, who also serves as secretary of the Nebraska Farm Safety Council, said there have been 10 agriculturally-related fatalities so far in 1974, down from 18 deaths a year ago.

Schneider attributed the decrease to several factors, with a growing awareness by farm people of the need for accident prevention likely having the most influence. Because more acres are in agricultural crop production this year, farm tractors and implements are being operated at greater capacity, in contrast to the slowdown in auto travel which has caused a decrease in highway deaths, Schneider commented.

GOP Simplifies Bookkeeping Of Ticket Sales

Nebraska Republicans will get some assistance in their bookkeeping operations every time they sell a ticket to a June 28 fund raiser, according to dinner chairman Walter Nolte.

Nolte said the Nebraska GOP devised an envelope to be used in ticket sales which lists spaces for "all necessary data" required for later government reports.

"This will mean a more accurate accounting method of contributions," Nolte said. "It will help those selling tickets and those who make out the final report."

House minority leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona will be featured speaker at the dinner.

"They may offer more tracts for lease but now the good stuff is gone."

Mobil headed a combine which was the big plunger, with high bids totaling $650 million.

No bids were made on 122 of the 245 tracts offered by the Department of Interior. It will be several days before Interior announces which bids have been accepted.

Bids considered too low are rejected. Cash taken in goes to the federal treasury along with a tors and implements are being operated at greater capacity, in contrast to the slowdown in auto travel which has caused a decrease in highway deaths, Schneider commented.

The increased awareness regarding hazards in mechanized agriculture, working with farm animals and avoiding falls — some of the major sources of accidents — may be due to the tractor operation safety program conducted for Nebraska youth, and scores of general safety meetings sponsored by the University's Extension Service and other farm organizations, Schneider speculated.

Tractor operators have widely accepted rollover protection devices on tractors, especially tractor cabs, he said. Ear-muff-type protectors to cut down noise and possible hearing loss are also growing in acceptance, Schneider added.

GOP Simplifies Bookkeeping Of Ticket Sales

The bleak spot in the farm safety picture now is the number of accidents charged to open or unprotected power shafts on farm machinery, the UNL specialist said. Five of the 10 deaths this year have been caused by an operator becoming tangled in a whirling power takeoff shaft: three relating to grain elevators, one to a hay loader and one to a post hole digger.

In addition, Schneider said, farm tractors have been involved in three fatal mishaps on the roadways. One operator was killed and in the other two fatal accidents, motorcyclists ran into farm tractors traveling on the road.

one-sixth royalty on future production of oil or natural gas.

All of the sealed bids were submitted just a few hours before the deadline because oilmen feared legal complications might delay the sale and create unexpected bank interest expenses. One-fifth of each bid had to be in cash and many companies take temporary bank loans for the occasion.

The sale opened on schedule after a U.S. District Court judge in Washington turned down consumer advocate Ralph Nader's request to block it. Nader contended offshore pollution threatens beaches, and onshore exploration might be better than opening all of the Gulf's outer continental shelf to drilling.

Death Rate Down In Farm Accidents

The shelf is the shallow water area before the sea bottom slopes down to the depths.

The highest bid in the sale was Mobil's $67.9 million offering for a 5,760-acre tract in 200 feet of water. It is located about 100 miles off the beach south of Port Arthur, Texas.

Joining Mobil in bid combinations were Union Oil Co. of California, Texas Gas Exploration, Amoco Production Co. and Northwest Mutual Life Insurance Co.

On many tracts, there was a great gap between high and low bids. Mobil, for instance, put up over $33 million for five tracts on which no one else made a bid.

Gov. J. James Exon will be the only state representative for Nebraska June 7, at Expo '74 in Spokane, Wash.

Welcoming speeches and explanations of their state's roles in America's Bicentennial will highlight the ceremonial exchange between Exon and Washington Gov. Dan Evans.

Nebraska will not be among states represented by entertaining groups such as high school bands, an Expo spokesman said.

Speed Was Possible

Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, said the bugging scandal would have been over "in 10 minutes" if President Nixon had quickly questioned his campaign managers after the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic headquarters. Ervin said, "If the President had acted with forthrightness, we would have spared the long agony of Watergate."

FBI Probes Prisoners' Claim To Be Escapee

The Federal Bureau of Investigation Wednesday was continuing its investigation into the case of a prisoner in the City Jail who told police he is an escapee from the Kentucky State Reformatory.

Police said the man, arrested with a companion for siphoning gasoline, originally told them his name was William Beasley and that he was 17 years old.

Now, police said, the man tells them his name is William Haskell Waford, 18, and that he escaped from the reformatory with two other men about six weeks ago.

The man told police he and the other two escapees drove to Mexico. The man said he hitchhiked to San Diego, Calif. where he met the man with whom he was traveling when arrested in Lincoln.

The Lincoln office of the FBI said it has not yet received positive identification of the man. However, three men did escape from the reformatory about six weeks ago, police said.

Storms Said To Continue

Nebraska's current weather pattern — partly cloudy skies with thunderstorm activity — was expected to continue Thursday and part of Friday.

However, there was a hint from the National Weather Service in its Friday forecast that conditions later in the day may become clear and dry throughout the state.

Winds gusting up to 60 and 70 miles per hour in Norfolk early Wednesday, downing trees across some streets. The Omaha and Fremont areas also had winds up to 60 m.p.h.

Thunderstorms brought 1.60 inches of rain in the Crookston area in northeast Nebraska, while Wahoo received 1.30 and Kirgore 1.20.

Danforth Names Professor, Wife New Associates

University of Nebraska-Lincoln associate professor of physics Robert G. Fuller have been named Danforth Associates. They are among 144 faculty members, and, if married, their spouses, who will join nearly 5,000 other Danforth Associates from all academic fields presently participating in the program.

Danforth Associates work directly with students on a personal basis in an effort to improve student-faculty relations and to strengthen the teaching-learning process.

Sanitary District Agrees To Halt Raw Discharge

The State Department of Environmental Control has received written assurance from Sanitary Improvement District No. 20 in Sarpy County that it will halt discharge of raw sewage into a stream.

Dick Hansen, the department's legal counsel, said the assurance was obtained Tuesday at an administrative hearing.

He said representatives of SID No. 20 agreed to daily inspections of the treatment plant, notification of equipment breakdowns, stocking of spare parts and certification of plant operators.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
